Mother hears daughter still alive

Woman who left Waco compound has information

By Joe Bel Bruno
North County News

The mother of a woman holed up in the heavily fortified Branch Davidian compound near Waco, Texas, has received word that her daughter is alive and well.

Ruth Mosher recently went to Waco in an attempt to contact her daughter, Sherri Jewell, a former typing teacher at Kraemer Junior High School. Word of Jewell's condition came from a woman who walked out of the compound last week.

"I told her in the note that I loved her and would be here when she got out," Mosher said. "I wanted my daughter to know she wasn't alone if she wanted to come out. If they were going to commit suicide ... I (just) wanted her to know I was there for her."

Mosher went to Waco March 11 in an attempt to persuade her daughter to walk out of the compound, which has been under siege since Feb. 28 when four federal agents were killed and 16 were injured during a raid. Her letter passed through two levels of officials before it reached her daughter, according to Mosher, who returned to Orange County March 17.

"You have no idea how frustrating it is to be there day after day hoping to get a message in. You just think something's got to work," said Mosher, 69, a retired school teacher.

Jewell, 43, has been a member of the Branch Davidians for three years. During her relationship with the Branch Davidians, Jewell and her daughter, Kiri, moved into her mother's Anaheim Hills home. That was when she took a job as a typing teacher at Kraemer Junior High School.

It was after Jewell lost her daughter in a bitter custody fight with her ex-husband in 1992 that she made the decision to quit teaching and move into the Branch Davidian compound just outside Waco. She now is among 100 people estimated to be holed up inside the compound.

The good news came out of the compound by way of Kathy Schroeder, one of the cult members who left the compound.

Schroeder's attorney contacted Mosher with a message that her daughter "was well and unharmed," Mosher said.

Mosher now can only wait and hope.

She said she intends to keep her mind off the tense drama unfolding in Texas by staying busy.

However, that hasn't been enough to avoid thinking about what life will be like if her

If it takes 3½ pounds of meat to feed eight hungry people, how much more would it take to satisfy 12? Ready? Go.

By the time you finish this sentence it would have been almost too late to beat students from seven Orange County schools who competed Wednesday at Kraemer Junior High School's 13th annual math tournament.

Rapid-fire questions such as these and lightning-quick answers kept nearly 200 math-hungry students busy.

UPDATE

Parents learn to live with pain

Deaths of daughter, companion still difficult to recount

By Marc S. Posner
North County News

Imagine the Orange Freeway running through the middle of the Cal State Fullerton campus.

Take away the center lanes and add light-rail tracks in their place. That's how Commonwealth Avenue goes through the heart of Boston University.

On that street — where motorists and pedestrians ignore the meaning of a crosswalk — Placentia's An Trinh lost her life.

The 1988 El Dorado High School graduate, and her "inseparable" friend, Michelle Dartley, had finished a late-night study session on March 22, 1991 and headed to a convenience store when Boston Celtics reserve guard Charles Smith slammed his van into the pair as they crossed "Comm Ave."

Smith fled. The pair died.

Two years later An's parents, Thang and Huan, find the memories still are too painful to recount.

The deaths prompted students to fight for tougher enforcement of traffic laws on Commonwealth Avenue and to give greater powers to campus police.

The university since has taken over the efforts but recent legislation has moved things in the wrong direction, said Ingrid Moon, a classmate of the two women.

Signs mounted on pylons in most crosswalks warn motorists that failure to yield to pedestrians is a violation of state law. Moon said she can't be sure they were placed there because of An's and Michelle's deaths, but she never noticed them until after March 22, 1991.

It's the simple things like that that remind Moon of the pair. Memories of An come daily. And she feels for the rest of the Trinh family.

"I think about them all the time," the 21-year-old film major said. "I almost think about them more than I think about An."

Moon, a former Loara High School student, returns to Orange County when not in school. About a year ago she had lunch with An's brother and visited the family.

"Her mother burst into tears every time she saw me," Moon recalled Monday. Her observance of the day was simple: a black shoelace worn as a reminder.

She and other friends still wonder "why?" About lots of things: Why will Smith spend so little time behind bars? Why wasn't he convicted of being drunk when he failed parts of a field sobriety test, had an open beer can in his van, and was driving away from his stated destination?

"Two-and-a-half years can't make up for two lives," Moon said. "It was obvious to everyone he was driving recklessly. And you know when he gets out he'll get his license back."

Moon said there's no doubt in her mind that Smith was driving under the influence of alcohol at the time of the accident. It's a charge that prosecutors failed to prove. Smith's blood-alcohol level was .06, under the state's then-.10 limit. But Massachusetts law would have allowed a DUI conviction if the other factors were proven.

But mainly they wonder "Why An?"

They remember a young woman who worked in the university library tutoring Vietnamese refugees. In 1975 An and her family fled Saigon.

She understood lots of people, friends recalled. "The thing I can always remember about An is she was always asking questions," Jose Baquero said. "But whenever someone would ask her (about herself) she would avoid it. She was very observant. Even when she wasn't asking you questions, she was getting to know you."

Losing weight reduces risks

Losing weight can help reduce major health risks such as hypertension, cardiovascular disease and many forms of cancer. In addition, obtaining a healthy body weight increases self-esteem and improves daily energy levels. Therefore, a weight loss program is a positive program.

The B & B diet cookies/cakes program works well. Jack Myers, owner of B and B Pharmacy in Yorba Linda, has lost 30 pounds in three months, simultaneously experiencing a 40 point drop in his cholesterol level (through the cookie diet and moderate exercise).

He reports customers are losing four to ten pounds in the first week and two to three pounds a week thereafter.

B and B Pharmacy is providing a healthy, convenient and delicious meal replacement for weight loss and management. The B & B diet cookies/cakes are nutritionally sound. In addition, they are full of fiber and sweetened naturally with fructose. They provide a safe, great tasting meal that can be taken anywhere and they do not require refrigeration or additional preparation. The cookies/cakes are available in 12 flavors.

Myers says the B & B program is a good way to help people be their healthiest selves.

City officials discuss solutions to slowdown

By Joe Bel Bruno
North County News

With a sluggish state and national economy placing Orange County communities in an economic stranglehold, some city officials are now looking outside the country for solutions.

Representatives from 26 Orange County cities got the idea after attending a symposium hosted by the Irvine-based World Trade Center, which counsels businesses on how to launch programs to market goods around the globe.

What intrigued many during the discussion was that the size of the community or business doesn't make a difference, according to one city official.

"They encouraged local cities — big and small — to become more active in international trade and exporting. The basic premise is that it will assist businesses, and raise revenue for us," said Placentia City Councilman Mike Maertzweiler, who already is laying the groundwork for a committee to study the idea.

World Trade Center officials told city officials that helping businesses in their communities launch a export program will help increase the number of jobs, strengthen public-private partnerships and increase revenues.

International trade represents nearly 10 percent of the state's gross state product and provides one in every nine jobs, according to World Trade Center statistics.

Marilyn Loewy, World Trade Center president, said those statistics can be scaled down to help boost city coffers.

"To export you don't have to be big, you just have to have a product or a service for which there is an overseas market for," she said. "Orange County is in a world of hurt, and I don't know of any market share here where companies can grow from. We have to look globally."

The Placentia City Council and Chamber of Commerce will explore whether Loewy's plan can work for the community's mix of large and small business. A committee could be in place as soon as April, said Chamber Executive Director Dave Musgrove.

Mayor Maria Moreno listens as a student reads to her at Morse Elementary School where she served as principal for the day.

Moreno gets to be principal for a day

By Joe Bel Bruno
North County News

Six-year-old Kevin Drake really couldn't comprehend the rules that allowed Placentia Mayor Maria Moreno to act as principal for a day at Morse Elementary School.

In his mind, Principal Paula Emry-Burtt got the bad end of the deal since the first-term mayor got the chance Tuesday to take the reins of the school's head office.

"If she gets to be the principal, then you should be the mayor. It should be the opposite," the eager first-grader told Emry-Burtt after finding out about the switch. "I don't think this is fair."

The chance to get to know some of the teachers and students at a Placentia elementary school was very fair for Moreno, who grew up in the city and attended Ruby Drive Elementary, Kraemer Junior High and Valencia High schools. Not only did it give her an opportunity to assess the state of city schools, but gave the mayor a chance to relive the past.

"This is a little like old times," Moreno said. "I grew up in Placentia and went to school here, so being on a campus here brings back memories."

Moreno spent about three hours at the school meeting with students and teachers about what goes on at the campus. She also had the opportunity to meet with student council, hand out awards, patrol kids at recess and observe a classroom.

The Placentia Unified School District sponsors the Principal for a Day program throughout the year to help give public officials a glimpse of campus life.

"It's a partnership," said Emry-Burtt, who has been principal at the school for the past five years. "I get to know the mayor, and it's a great way to network. I feel free if I have a question now because I know her."

For the students, it was one of their first chances to meet face-to-face with a city official.

"It sounds like you do some of the same things we do," commented fifth-grader Joely Neptune — the school's vice president — while student government met with Moreno.

Civic leaders meeting with students is also a way to encourage them to take an interest in public service, and learn about the voting process, according to Moreno.

"This is important for the kids to understand government, and how it works," said Moreno. "It shows them them the responsibility that comes with voting. Though it's a cliche, we really do have to remember that these kids are our future."

Librarian studying city past

By Joe Bel Bruno
North County News

From tony tract homes sprouting on the eastside to the mom-and-pop Mexican restaurants that dot the streets of old town, residents know first-hand about cultural diversity.

After incorporating 67 years ago, the city has begun to show its growing pains. However, city officals and longtime residents believe growth doesn't have to affect Placentia's "sense of community."

Saud Ammar, the city's principal librarian, has a plan.

With a grant from the California Council for the Humanities, she has embarked the city on a six-week study of itself.

"In these days with cultural diversity on the rise in the Placentia community, we've grown tremendously with people from all kinds of cultural and economic backgrounds," said Ammar, who moved to the city 20 years ago.

"What we are trying to do is create some awareness in the minds of community leaders in order to keep the sense of community, and not to lose it."

The program consists of six meetings to grapple with issues from utopia to the definition of a community. Those who participate in the study — 20 community leaders who represent different walks of life — also are required to read literature provided through the program.

The program was developed for San Bernardino and Riverside counties in 1992 as a way to handle a boom in growth. In Placentia, the program is a way to gauge the future, according to one program member.

Susan Parman, an associate professor of anthropology at California State University, Fullerton, believes the program is a form of preventative medicine.

Group recommends anti-graffiti measures

By Bruce Bailey
North County News

Students who get caught writing graffiti with ink markers may lose their ability to get their driver's licenses for one year.

That was one of the Placentia Yorba Linda Unified School District's Graffiti Task Force recommendations to district trustees Tuesday.

The move is part of an effort to cut down on graffiti vandalism, which has cost the district $160,000 since July, said Kim Stallings, assistant superintendent for administrative services.

Other recommendations include a graffiti hotline, rewards, surveillance cameras and establishing a graffiti data base, which the district will share with police officials.

Stallings couldn't say how much the reward would be.

Stallings said the names of callers to the graffiti hotline would be kept confidential.

"Including a reward with hotline tips is a proactive stance to fighting graffiti," Stallings said.

In another matter, board members unanimously approved establishing an adult education program and an adult education fund. Ronald Cozort, principal of El Camino Real High School and director of alternative education, said after three years of negotiations, the district may soon get its adult education program back.

Cozort said that program was transferred to the North Orange County Community College District in the mid-1960s because the college district was better prepared to offer those classes.

FESTIVAL

Bodybuilder chosen Heritage grand marshal

By Joe Bel Bruno
North County News

Shawn Ray, a former El Dorado High School student turned professional bodybuilder, will be the grand marshal for Placentia's 29th annual Heritage Day Parade and Festival in October.

This festival is organized by the Heritage Committee, a City Council-appointed group. The committee expects to announce more details within the next few months, according to one city official.

"The committee is hard at work planning everything out ahead of time, so we should be getting more details as the days goes on," Recreation Director Steve Pishell said. "This is our premier event of the year, and we're fortunate to have Shawn Ray as our celebrity grand marshal."

Ray, who has been competing in bodybuilding since graduating from high school nine years ago, clinched both the Mr. California and Mr. America titles in 1987.

The 27-year-old currently attends California State University, Fullerton while training for this year's Mr. Olympia contest.

An estimated 10,000 people are expected to attend the festival and line the streets of Placentia to catch a glimpse of Ray, marching bands and other local celebrities during the parade.

The two-day festival, which starts Oct. 9, also will include an antique and classic car show, a high-school student art show, food, games and crafts booths and live entertainment.

Residents are also invited to attend a pancake breakfast the morning of the parade, and close the festivities with the "Harvest Hoedown" party on Oct. 10.

MATH: Local students compete in contest

FROM 1

liam Pugatch relied on his math skills to solve the problem in record time.

"The answer is 5¼," the eighth-grader answered about 20 seconds later.

"I got real nervous at the end. There were butterflies in my stomach, but we got it," he said.

Pugatch and other students played "Jeopamath" and other math games in a competition involving students from El Rancho Middle School in Anaheim, Brea Junior High School, Kraemer Junior High in Placentia, Bernardo Yorba Junior High in Yorba Linda, D. Russell Parks Junior High School in Fullerton and Washington Junior High School in La Habra.

Students competed on an individual basis, rather than representing schools, and most got ribbons for placing in various contests during the day.

This was the second year they played Jeopamath, a fusion of the game show "Jeopardy" and math.

Participants also feverishly worked out algebraic equations in the "Hex" portion of the competition, a math game similar to checkers, and took 30-minute silent tests.

Tournament organizer Larry Wilgus said the entire tournament is just for fun. It helps increase students' motivation with math, he said.

"It's great to watch the reactions of some of the kids. When a math problem is asked, everyone gets quiet and they all concentrate on it — even if they aren't competing," said Wilgus, a Kraemer teacher. "It is also really satisfying to see how they react during the next school day."

No scores were kept for the day, and all students took home either a trophy, pin or a certificate. The emphasis was on participation, and organizers got it.

"I'm here just to have fun," said Donny Chia, a Bernardo Yorba eighth-grader. "I just like the chance to participate in a school activity."

Shalini Gunawardane and Binh Nguyen, two members of the Kraemer teams, agreed that the competition fostered a feeling of togetherness.

"It was all teamwork. It didn't matter if we won or lost because we were doing it together, and having fun," Nguyen said.

SCHOOL DEBATE

School meeting tapes tell what really was said

The Viewpoints page is the one section of most newspapers that readers have the opportunity to express new ideas and opinions on issues. It's a page that's open to citizens who have no other forum available to sound off against things that bother them, or to offer support to things they believe benefit their community.

The Viewpoints pages of North County News publications are typical of the industry. Through our Letters to the Editor, we offer readers a forum for their opinions. These short expressions of opinion, generally, are non-controversial. So there is little criticism about what appears on this page.

But when our Viewpoints pages address a controverisal issue, as they have in the Placentia News-Times lately, the newspapers are often accused of fostering dissent and misinformation within the community.

The most current debate centers around a new high school being proposed through some circles in Yorba Linda. Among the leading proponents for the new school are Yorba Linda Mayor John Gullixson and Councilman Dan Welch. Opponents have questioned their purported reasons for supporting a move to construct a new high school.

Gullixson and Welch have denied making statements attributed to them that their support for a new school is based on selfish motives. They offer tapes of a recent City Council-Placentia Yorba Linda Unified School District meeting as evidence supporting their denials. Upon review of the tape, we find that while both gentlemen did disucss athletics as part of their presentations they did so in the broad sense that many young people in Yorba Linda were being denied opportunities to participate in the Esperanza High School interscholastic athletic programs because of what they term are overcrowded conditions. Gullixson referred to the Esperanza athletic program as one that deals in superstars. "Most of our kids aren't superstars," he said. They also did not limit their discussions to athletics, but addressed enrollment figures and academics.

Critics of Gullxison and Welch should be aware that the two campaigned to address two issues if they were elected. They promised term limits and support for a high school in the city. To their credit they have, and are, addressing these issues. The city has a

Yorba Lindans do care about school needs

I am amazed by the letters printed in "Viewpoints" of March 11. That no one cares about about Yorba Linda and its future educational needs. I am concerned about the current problem of overcrowded schools.

Placentia Yorba Linda School District ... was this merger a mistake on the part of Yorba Linda? Placentia grew into its boundaries and with that growth came new schools. Yes, even high schools. Why now, when Yorba Linda is a growing community, does the school district say no? Money? The homes (in Yorba Linda) were built and the development fees collected. Where did these fees go? Was the merger a mistake'

Personally, I am elated that we have council members willing to prepare and plan for our future educational needs. Yorba Linda has built two elementary schools in the past four years. Both exceeded capacity before they opened. Where are these kids going to go when they graduate?

> Placentia grew into its boundaries and with that growth came new schools. Why now, when Yorba Linda is a growing community, does the school district say no? Money? The homes (in Yorba Linda) were built and development fees collected. Where did the fees go? Was the merger a mistake?

All residents of Yorba Linda must agree that to maintain the high standard of living we have come to expect, we must have strong community involvement. Ask yourself as you greet your friends in town: "Where did I meet the Jones family?" Chances are the answer will be one of the following: at a religious organiztion, senior citizens' group, school involvement or youth sports. How can we consider slowing the growth of any one of these in our city?

New high schools, new elementary schools, new middle schools, transition of existing schools or any combination of these should be considered with open minds. And we should support our council members involved in the issue.

The Viewpoints letter of March 11 by Frences Roney agrees with my thoughts. The letter read: "Yorba Linda may indeed need another high school."

I agree with the Yorba Linda Star editorial, which said, "... the majority of Yorba Linda residents favor a new high school." Did you mean this — or were your remarks taken out of context?

Fried responds to political vendetta charges

I am writing in response to the letters from Messers Gullixson and Welch which appeared in the March 18 edition of the Yorba Linda Star (and the Placentia News-Times).

In their letters, the two gentlemen accused me of lying, bitterness, carrying on a personal, political vendetta as reasons for commenting on their remarks during a recent joint meeting between the City Council and Placentia Yorba Linda school board.

It is amusing to look at the intensity and outrage of the response from these two, to an opinion expressed by one private citizen.

Here are my responses to the charges:

Lying: The tape of the meeting is sufficient evidence to let the people of Yorba Linda determine who is lying.

Bitterness: The last election, which I lost, was disappointing. As elections go, this one was hard-fought, but absolutely clean. In four elections, I barely squeaked through each one. November 1992 was the year of the woman and term limits in Yorba Linda. My time was up. Disappointing? Yes. Bitter? No.

Personal Vendetta: I have given 20 years of my life (since 1972) helping to shape, mold and plan Yorba Linda. I am proud of that role. The loss of an election did not automatically turn me into a hermit. I intend to exercise my right of free speech and participate as a private citizen in the affairs of Yorba Linda.

ISSUES/ ANSWERS

FIRE SERVICE

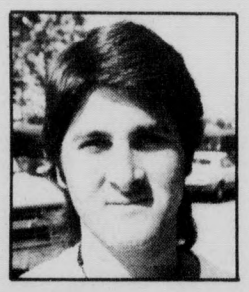

Placentia is considering becoming part of a special fire district with 15 other cities. The change could mean a property tax increase in the next three years.

QUESTION: Would you be willing to pay more property tax if it meant the city would have more control over fire protection services.

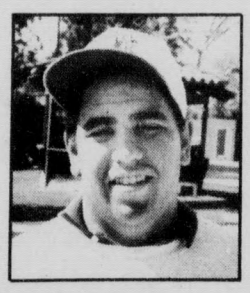

Asked at Placentia City Hall

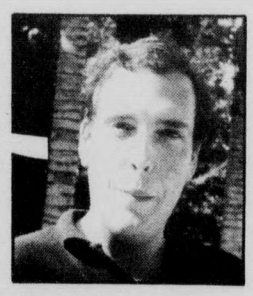

Don O'Connell, 61
"I'm not a citizen of Placentia, but it sounds good to me. It would probably save money all the way around."

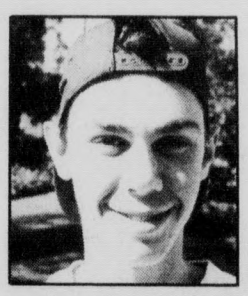

Brad Berson, student
"I wouldn't pay higher taxes because they could just use the whole Orange County Fire Department to fight fires."

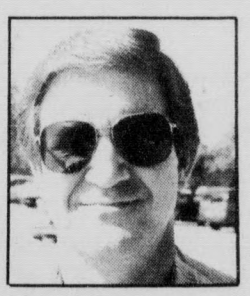

Mike Arias, city worker
"It's important for the city have more control. I would be willing to pay more control of our fire services."

John Karickhoff, federal express driver
"I don't know. It depends on the increase. It would be nice to have more control but I'm not a property owner."

Kevin Riles, 19, student
"I would pay more more taxes if we had more direct control, but if it doesn't pan out in the future, I wouldn't want to keep paying the tax."

Jerry Clements, consultant
"Don't they already have their own fire districts? If it would improve the response times, I probably would go for the increase.

CONSTITUTION

Esperanza sophomore abhors censorship

In the Sunday, Feb. 28 edition of the Orange County Register, the American Family Association had a paid advertisement promoting the control of televsion, movies, music and music videos.

I am a 15-year-old sophomore at Esperanza High School and I am asbolutely indignant that this kind of attempt to breach our constitutional rights was published. What they're attempting is censorship. People individually, no matter their age, are responsible for their actions. TV, movies and music cannot be a scapegoat for the irresponsibility of parents.

Parents have the responsibility and obligation to supervise and control what their children watch. If the shows and movies noted by the American Family Association were not supported, they would go off the air.

Violence and profanity are put on the air to attract ratings. If these sorts of attractions were unpopular, they would not be aired. Parents are the ones who complain about vulgarity, violence and profanity found in the media. Yet parents are not turning off their TV sets.

If parents don't like what their children are listening to, they should encourage them to listen to the "Aladdin" soundtrack. The "G" rated movie, "Beauty and the Beast," was one of the highest grossing movies last year.

Parents who don't like what their kids are watching should turn off the TV set. If they don't like the movies playing at the local theaters, don't go to the movies. Read to your kids. Take them to a park. Go to an amusement park. Let the kids build a fort out of blankets in their bedroom.

No one is forcing others to be exposed to the media. Parents who feel it is important to educate their children, should spend time with them. Instead of spending those wasteful hours trying to censor what others watch, parents should teach their children morals, ethics and values that will prevent them from being influenced by this "garbage" in the first place.

Parents can't continue to blame writers, producers, singers, actors or anyone else for their irresponsibility. Teaching your children begins at home!

CONFLICT

School board should decide education issues

We wonder if the voters of Yorba Linda realize what happened in the last election when former councilman Irwin Fried was voted out of office and Dan Welch voted in. Fried was always involved in events in both Yorba Linda and Orange County. He was always careful to avoid any hint of a conflict of interest and conducted his law practice in another city for this reason.

We now see that lawyers Welch and Gullixson have joined forces to concentrate on having the voters build a $40 to $60 million high school in the east end of the city. Why? So that (more male students not females) can play varsity basketball. If this isn't male chauvinism, we don't know what is. We have an elected school board to decide education needs for the community, the least of which is guaranteeing basketball programs for everyone who wants to participate.

We elected council members to vote on matters of concern to the entire city, not to promote personal agendas. Gullixson and Welch should do so and stay out of educational issues.

term-limits ordinance awaiting activation. And they have opened the lines of communication between the city and school district.

They have delivered on their promises. Now it's time they move beyond an apparent preoccupation with school issues and get on with running city affairs. Hopefully, they will pursue adopting the next city budget, and deal with the possibility of deeper state funding cuts, with the same zeal they pursued term limits, perceived overcrowded classrooms and the need for neighborhood schools.

Let the debate continue among the citizenry of Yorba Linda and Placentia and their school district. Let the people now decide if up to $60 million is too high a price to pay for classrooms and athletic fields. Let the people decide also where a new "neighborhood" high school will be built, if approved. Will it be welcomed in their neighborhood? Or will it be the rhetorical "Not in our neighborhood?"

BUSINESS

TRADE SECRETS

Placentia couple retailing popular Southwest jewelry

By Barbara Giasone
North County News

Don't let this rattle you, but those bead-filled rain sticks are not American Indian.

Clear purple Sugalite, mounted in Navajo sterling silver rings, is mined in Africa.

And about that medium-blue Chinese turquoise. As American turquoise resources fade, the imports are showing up in tribal designs.

Slowly, the tides are changing in Native American trading posts.

"Nowadays, to know what you're purchasing, you have to just trust the dealer," said Howard Metz. "Buying today is the hardest part of the business; the selling is easy."

Metz and his wife, Merilyn, should know. For 20 years, the pair have wholesaled and retailed thousands of items throughout the Southwest. Both can easily identify natural, treated and stabilized stones. They know Hopis concentrate on overlay, Zunis on channel and mosaic inlay, Navajo on heavy silver and large chunks of stone, and Santo Domingo on small beadwork.

And they are so well known among Indian tribes, the Metzes are allowed to deal directly with individual Colorado Zunis despite a $1,000 tribal commmission fee.

Merilyn Metz, whose ancestors arrived on the Mayflower, lays claim to Indian heritage. Through intermarriage, some of her relatives descended from the Blackfoot tribe in the Mohawk nation.

Surrounded by artifacts that decorate their Placentia home, the Metzes are assembling their wares for this weekend's American Indian, Western Relic Show and Sale in the Pasadena Center. Marketed under the Wise Owl Traders label, the couple's inventory includes jewelry, baskets, ceremonial lances, prayer feather wall hangings, kachina dolls and bowls.

On April 10 at 10:30 a.m., Howard Metz will lecture on "How the Indian Jewelry Business Really Works" during a free presentation at the Fullerton Museum Center.

The pair's business adventures resulted from a 1973 vacation in Northern Arizona where they stopped at 20 trading posts and pawed through shoeboxes filled with jewelry.

"Up to that point, you couldn't pay Howard to wear his wedding ring," Merilyn Metz said.

Laughing at the memory, Metz displays turquoise bracelets and a watch on his wrists, chunks of turquoise mounted on his fingers, a sterling silver and stone bolo tie and an intricate belt buckle.

Metz had just retired after serving 26 years with the Los Angeles City Fire Department when the pair toured the Southwest. Several weeks later, they met a businessman who was looking for someone to take a sales route and buy into a St. John's, Ariz. trading post.

A. Trafford Templeton/North County News

Howard and Merilyn Metz of Placentia show off some of the Native American jewelry and other merchandise they sell at trade shows.

"The time seemed right," Metz said. "We packed up our motorhome and made the rounds for one year."

His wife said she found it easier to handle the financial side of the business because her husband was used to the structured life of the Navy and fire service.

In 1974, they attended their first major auction at the Adams Hotel in Phoenix where dealers sold $3 million worth of jewelry.

"That was the year Wall Street suggested Indian jewelry was a good investment, and the fashion world adopted the Indian look," Merilyn Metz said. "Our sales skyrocketed. Even now in this recession, our sales continue to double. People still consider Indian wares an investment, and 'Dances With Wolves' helped considerably."

In 1976, Howard Metz signed on as Disneyland's fire chief. When the Magic Kingdom opened its park in Japan, the Metzes spent one year in Tokyo where Howard taught fire prevention to the Japanese workers.

At one point, the Metzes were invited to supply Anaheim's Disneyland with Indian jewelry, but they declined. Instead, they sold their products through B.D. Howe and Sons Jewelers at Palm Springs Desert Fashion Plaza for eight years.

Through the years, they have befriended dozens of Indian families. Native American children often create prayer feather ornaments as tokens of friendship after the Metzes host their new-found "neighbors" in Orange County.

"They are all so creative, and have such a sense of humor," Howard Metz said. "But if you offer to, for example, prune a tree, they ask you not to tamper with the balance of nature.

"One friend who lives on the reservation told me that if God wanted a peach tree to grow bigger fruit, He would provide more rain and allow the branches to break instead of man-made pruning.

"Despite our differences, it's a culture we have grown to love."

Where's the outrage for shooting?

By Manuel E. Ortega
For North County News

CHIEFLY SPEAKING

On March 9, another police officer died in the line of duty. I am sure he kissed his wife and children goodbye, fully expecting to see them at the end of his tour of duty.

I watched the news accounts of the slaying and saw grim-faced officers going about their jobs of gathering evidence, interviewing witnesses and trying to make sense out of a senseless act of violence. I listened to radio broadcasters describing accounts of the shooting after interviewing the residents in the area. And I read the comments made by co-workers and friends of the fallen police officer regarding his willingness to help others, his strong commitment to his profession and his love for his family.

However, I am disturbed by a great many things I did not see. I did not see the killing of a police officer get any headlines in our local newspapers. Instead, I see the trial of four police officers being tried in the Rodney King beating. Have we become so uncaring in what is going on around us every single day that the cold-blooded killing of an officer takes the back seat to a trial involving an alleged assault which took place over two years ago?

I did not hear a cry of moral outrage about the deterioration of our society from those same people who staged rallies and protests during the King incident. Where is the Rev. Jesse Jackson or Al Sharpton when the single-most visible symbol of authority, a police officer, is gunned down in the streets? Where are all the politicians who used the Rodney King incident as a platform to demand reform in police departments throughout this nation?

I do not wish to condemn all politicians, because the vast majority are professional in their ethics and in the service they provide to their constituents. I am just asking that they, and all in public office, look around at our society and acknowledge that we are experiencing moral decay that is exacerbated by the movies we see, by the music we allow to be played in the interest of freedom of speech (Ice T's "Cop Killer," for instance), and by the violence that is now claiming the lives of those men and women

My Son Has His Opinions and I Have Mine

But on this we agree.

I knew moving to a retirement community made sense – and I knew exactly what I was looking for:

- My own apartment
- Delicious meals
- New friends, trips and activities
- A community where I could come and go, but still have peace-of-mind

But my son had his ideas:

• Stability of ownership • Good management • Convenient location

Everything came together when we discovered Nohl Ranch Inn. My son is happy. I am happy. Great minds do think alike. Why don't you call with your retirement concerns.

Ask about Rental Incentives. We could match your needs!

New Zealand

New Zealand is more than just a vacation. It's a place that brims with the tantalizing promise of replenishment. A place where body and soul can be refilled with those precious sensations that are all too readily pushed aside by our busy lifestyles. There is something really uplifting about New Zealand. It's a feeling that pervades the entire country, a certain kind of magic that seems to have touched each and every one of its inhabitants. Why are New Zealanders so friendly? What possesses them to give you the kind of welcome you'd only expect from a close friend? The answer is something we invite you to find out for yourself.

APRIL: News, notes from around Placentia

FROM 8

Barbara Williams (she modeled fashions as well), Maureen Plegel, Isablee Hlavac, former PUSD trustee, and Anita Rowland. Clairee Tynes, longtime music supporter, made sure we all got raffle tickets. Pat Wortman was there and said "I've never won anything before" as she won a door prize. Lola Hanel, Karen Meldrum and Catherine Stickles all spied "had to have" outfits. Kelly Meador, local fifth grader, modeled fashions that afternoon along with friend Jennifer Johnson. Spotted Joan Meador and Joan Waterworth browsing at the "Chinese Auction" table. Lorette Benson's musical munchkins provided entertainment while we all got ready for the second half. Oops, can't forget Giselle Luz, Academy of Dance artistic director and her six students who opened the Fashion Notes program with an unbelievable Can-Can. Whew! Were they energetic!

Got a phone call from Pat Mercier, Founders Society member, who's in a dilemma. She's chairing an upcoming wonderful event — a Bride's Tea where former brides, moms, and moms-in-law renew memories of their special Bradford House weddings. So, calling all brides: If you were married, or you know of any brides who were married, at Bradford House since 1979, call 993-2470. As all Founders Society events are special, so will this one be!

St. Joseph's students were very busy March 19 according to Karen Guevara who said everyone participated in a fest to honor the school's patron saint. During the celebration, the students learned the value of sharing along with history lessons. Mrs. Humphries' choir performed while Miss Johnson, principal, was the day's hostess. Each student brought muffins to share and Mrs. Reeses' fourth grade boys dressed up as saints in keeping with the day's theme. Sharon of Sharon's Bakery donated a double duty cake for the celebration as well as to acknowledge Father Fergus' birthday!

People around town: Sending more happy birthday wishes to Virginia Bradley, Sherry

THOUGHT FOR FOOD

Henry VIII would love this event

The annual Renaissance Pleasure Fair Elizabethan Cooking Competition will be held Sunday, May 2 at Glen Helen Regional Park in Devore. Judging begins at 9:30 a.m. at the Friends of the Faire Garden.

Whip up your ol' English favourite in any of the five categories — meat dishes and stews, vegetables and sallets, breads and pastries, desserts and savouries or illusion foods ("dishes to fool the eye and delight the palate... four and 20 blackbirds baked in a pye").

The grand prize winner receives a trip for two to London. First through third place winners in each of the five categories receive $100, $50 and $30, respectively.

Entry deadline is April 26. Call (800) 52-FAIRE for registration info or pick up a registration brochure at any Pavilions market.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

MAKE AHEAD

Casseroles still popular choice for busy moms

Casseroles now flaunt a broad range of tastes and styles. Give your family a change of pace with Chicken Provencal or Cheesy Polenta Bake.

As soon as dinner was announced, Kathy, Bud, and Betty would come scurrying from all directions to the dinner table. Seconds later Jim would enter the dining room and take his seat at the head of the table, right before Margaret came waltzing in with a steaming casserole which the family marveled at and viewers smelled through the TV screen.

Times have changed since "Father Knows Best" was on TV, but casseroles are making a comeback as a filling, easy-to-make entree that satisfies the entire family.

In "Father Knows Best," Mr. Anderson was the only family member who worked, but according to the 1990 Census Survey, there are more than 26.3 million U.S. households in which both the husband and the wife work. Of these households almost 58 percent, or more than 14.5 million, have children under 18 years of age. With statistics like these on the rise, families today are turning to casseroles as a convenient, economical alternative to expensive takeout.

Not only are many casseroles nutritious, but they are great to prepare early and reheat right before serving. And, since each casserole makes several portions, they make great leftovers for lunch the next day.

Keeping in step with the times, casseroles have matured recently and now flaunt a broad range of tastes and styles. Here, several casseroles tout an international flavor.

Chicken Provencal, redolent of French flavors, couldn't be simpler to fix. Slowly simmer chicken pieces in a bouillon-enriched stock along with beans and sliced carrots. Prepare the casserole on Sunday afternoon so that it's ready for the quick "heat-and-eat" lifestyle of the week.

For people who would like what savvy chefs are putting on their tables, vegetarian polenta might be just the dish. Cheesy Polenta Bake features "cornmeal mush" layered with a fresh vegetable sauce and cheesy Mozzarella. Explore this classic for real Italian taste!

And in Pork Enchiladas, shredded pork, black beans and green chilies are wrapped up in a soft tortilla shell for a spicy mix reminiscent of a Mexican-style meal.

To have your family turn off the TV and run to the dinner table, serve a casserole tonight.

CHICKEN PROVENCAL
(Makes 4 to 6 servings)

1 (3-lb.) broiler-fryer chicken, cut up
1 Tbsp. vegetable oil
1½ cups chopped onion
3 cloves garlic, finely chopped
2 (15-oz.) cans white kidney or great northern beans, drained
1 (29-oz.) can whole tomatoes, undrained and broken up
1½ cups diagonally sliced carrots
1 Tbsp. chicken-flavor instant bouillon
1 tsp. thyme leaves
½ tsp. oregano leaves
½ to 1 tsp. pepper

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In Dutch oven, brown chicken in oil; remove and set aside. Add onion and garlic to drippings; cook until tender. Add remaining ingredients; mix well. Arrange chicken over vegetables. Bake covered 1 hour and 15 minutes or until chicken is tender. Refrigerate leftovers.

CHEESY POLENTA BAKE
(Makes 4 to 6 servings)

1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
1 cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped green bell peper
2 cloves garlic, finely chopped
1 Tbsp. vegetable oil
1 (15-oz.) can diced tomatoes, undrained
4 tsp. chicken-flavor instant bouillon or 4 chicken-flavor bouillon cubes
½ tsp. basil leaves
¼ tsp. black pepper
4 cups water
1 cup yellow cornmeal
1 cup shredded Mozzarella cheese
Grated Parmesan cheese

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. In large skillet, cook mushrooms, onion, green pepper and garlic in oil until tender; add tomatoes, 1 tsp. bouillon, basil and black pepper. Simmer 15 minutes. In medium saucepan, combine remaining 3 tsp. bouillon and 3 cups water; bring to a boil. In small bowl, stir together remaining 1 cup water and cornmeal; gradually add to boiling bouillon liquid, stirring constantly. Return just to boiling; reduce heat. Cook uncovered, over low heat about 5 minutes or until thickened, stirring constantly. Spread 1 cup polenta on bottom of 2-qt. greased baking dish. Top with half the tomato sauce, Mozzarella cheese then 1 cup polenta and remaining tomato sauce. Spoon remaining polenta over sauce to within 1 inch of edge of dish. Bake 25 minutes or until heated through. Serve with grated Parmesan cheese. Refrigerate leftovers.

PORK ENCHILADAS
(Makes 6 to 8 servings)

2 (15-oz.) cans tomato sauce
2½ tsp. chili powder
2 tsp. beef-flavor instant bouillon
¾ tsp. oregano leaves
½ tsp. cumin
1 lb. shredded cooked pork
1 cup chopped onion
3 cloves garlic, finely chopped
1 Tbsp. vegetable oil
1 (15-oz.) can black beans, drained
1 (4-oz.) can chopped green chilies, drained
2 cups (8 oz.) shredded Monterey Jack cheese
10 (8-inch) flour tortillas
Sour cream, optional

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. In medium saucepan, combine tomato sauce, chili powder, 1 tsp. bouillon, oregano and cumin; simmer 10 minutes. In large skillet, cook pork, onion and garlic in oil until onion is tender; remove from heat. Add beans, chilies, remaining 1 tsp. bouillon, 1½ cups cheese and ½ cup tomato sauce mixture. Soften tortillas according to package directions; fill with equal portions of meat mixture. Roll up. Arrange in greased 13x9-inch baking dish; top with tomato sauce. Cover; bake 20 minutes. Uncover; top with remaining cheese. Bake 5 minutes longer. Serve with sour cream if desired. Refrigerate leftovers.

PLASTIC

TAKING CHARGE

Credit counseling firm helps regain control and sanity

By David Heitz
North County News

Throughout Orange County, about 2,500 people are recovering from a fierce addiction. Their uncontrollable obsession with shiny pieces of plastic has caused most of them to lose sleep. Some argue that they've even lost their sanity

But because their condition was diagnosed early, most will get to keep their cars and their homes. They got free help from the credit doctors at Consumer Credit Counseling Service of Orange County, a non-profit organization that has been helping residents dig out of financial trouble and avoid bankruptcy for more than 26 years.

"Most people want to pay their bills — they don't want to go bankrupt," CCCS Director Jim Frannea said.

In the past year, CCCS has noticed a 40 percent increase in clientele, which is comprised of professionals, college students and others.

"A lot of people get into credit trouble in college," Frannea said. "They think, 'As soon as I get that degree, I'm gonna be in fat city.' "

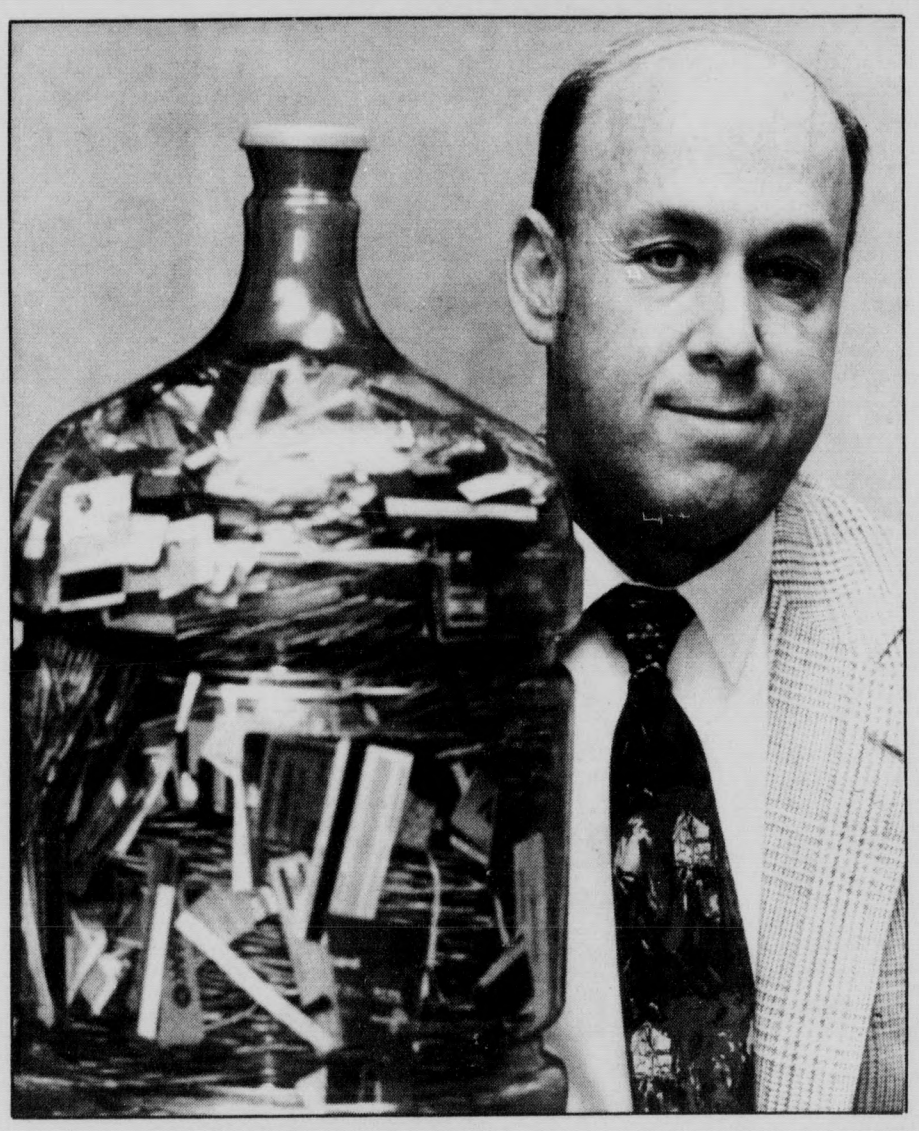

More than half of CCCS' clients have been referred to the agency by creditors who want payment on delinquent accounts. Others hear about the program from friends or they read about it in the paper, Frannea said.

The counselors at CCCS, with locations in Tustin, Fullerton, Huntington Beach and Laguna Hills, help people develop strict budgets. About 12 percent of their clients are able to get back on their feet just by trimming some fat, Frannea said.

But for most, there's just not enough money to pay the monthly bills in full. With CCCS' debt management program, which is endorsed by most creditors, counselors devise payment schedules so that all accounts are paid, even if it's considerably less than the normal monthly payment.

Some credit companies will waive late charges and lower interest rates for CCCS clients. A few will stop the interest meter altogether. "Some don't give anything up though," Frannea said. "They don't feel it's fair to give breaks when others pay their bills on time."

He said that by enrolling in the debt management program, some clients wound their credit rating — temporarily, at least — because the smaller payments are considered late. "But most people who come in here already are behind on their payments anyway," he said. "And after 90 days or six months, many will reinstate the accounts as current."

Sam Gangwer/North County News

Jim Frannea, president of Consumer Credit Counseling Service of Orange County, with one of four five-gallon water bottles filled with destroyed credit cards.

When a client signs up for debt management, he must turn over all credit cards to CCCS and promise not to open any new accounts. The counselor looks over the client's living budget and determines how much money can reasonably be used to pay credit card bills and other unsecured debts.

After that amount is determined, the client gives CCCS a monthly payment by cashier's check or money order, and the counseling service distributes the money among the individual accounts. More than $7 million was paid out last year.

The credit cards are cut up and stuffed in water jugs that decorate the lobby of the Tustin office. More than 5,000 cards were destroyed last year.

"It's traumatic, for some people. We've had people cry," Frannea said. "It's hard to exist in our society without a credit card.

Counselor Larry Moore said he keeps Kleenex at his desk for clients who turn on the tears. Some become emotional when they explain how they got into debt, he said.

Some have accrued debt by flying to foreign countries to visit a significant other, he said. Many have lost their jobs and live on their credit cards, hoping that employment is just around the corner.

Frannea said the average CCCS client is 31 years old, nets $2,215 per month, owes $17,743 and has 11 delinquent accounts. About 67 percent are women, 48 percent are single, and 17 percent own a home.

Moore said that about half of the clients have peace of mind when they leave the CCCS office — the other half have waited too long and cannot be helped.

For those who recognize their credit problems early and visit CCCS, "They say, 'I'm going to sleep at night' and 'I'm not going to get any more phone calls from collection agencies.' " Moore said.

Consumer Credit Counseling Service, which is funded by big credit companies nationwide, has 835 offices in the United States, Puerto Rico, Canada, Great Britan and Japan.

He's a credit to his cause

By David Heitz
North County News

Let me tell you about my little trip to financial hell and how CCCS put me on the road to recovery.

About 10 months ago, I graduated from a small, private college in the Midwest, the kind of place where big bucks get you arched doorways in the dormitories and ivy-covered buildings on tree-lined campuses — playgrounds for squirrels, mallard ducks and even an occasional deer.

It was a playground for me, too. Since I was an independent student and qualified for almost every loan available, I borrowed my way through.

Although I worked almost full-time, my tastes were pricey, and if I didn't have the cash for that expensive sweater or a fancy meal for a date, I charged it.

"Wanna go to New York City for spring break?" wealthy friends from the Chicago suburbs would ask.

"Sure," I said. "I'll charge it. I'll get these cards paid off in less than a year after graduation."

Clearly, I had an illness. My name is David, and I'm a creditholic.

I knew damn well that I would be making a skimpy salary after graduation, barely enough to live on. There's not a newspaper job anywhere that nets recent journalism grads big paychecks.

I didn't plan on getting laid off from my first job, either — especially after only five weeks. And I sure didn't expect to end up in Southern California, where the cost of living is literally incomprehensible to me.

So, instead of paying off those cards, I kept using them.

Collection agencies were calling me. The credit card companies were disgusted with my stories of car problems, moving expenses and flights home.

Right before I was about ready to give up and consider bankruptcy, a Visa agent told me about CCCS.

Although I only owed about $4,000 (minus the student loans, which are in forebearance), I felt as though I'd never get out of debt. My CCCS counselor, Bill Allen in the Huntington Beach office, laughed at me. My problems are minor, compared to many.

Now, one credit card completely stopped charging me interest and another closed my account and offered a repayment plan (consistent with the budget devised by CCCS) at a lower interest rate. The harassing phone calls have stopped.

With the debt management plan, I should be debt-free (except for the student loans) within three years. And CCCS offers educational programs to help people like me stay that way.

If it hadn't been for CCCS, I'd be back at home, begging my parents for money and watching the snow fall while looking for a better-paying job in a different field.

That would be a terrible fate. Thanks, CCCS.

Companies find it easier to offer retirement benefits

By Karen L. Grewar
PaineWebber Inc.

Important as it is, providing retirement benefits has not always been easy for the small employer. Filing required documents with the IRS and Department of Labor can be complicated, cumbersome and, as a result, time consuming.

Ongoing plan administration and record-keeping can prove overwhelming without a designated benefits or accounting department. Add to that, fiduciary responsibilities, intricate vesting schedules and often stringent contribution requirements, and it becomes clear why qualified retirement plans have historically been a big headache for the small business owner.

With these small companies in mind, Congress created the Simplified Employee Pension (SEP) plan in 1978. As its name suggests, the hallmark of SEP is simplicity. An increasing number of smaller employers and self-employed individuals can attest, it is an easy and inexpensive solution to their retirement needs.

Easy to establish and maintain. A SEP is, quite simply, an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) you establish for yourself and, if applicable, each of your employees. Each employee maintains his or her own "SEP-IRA" account, and is responsible for all IRS filing and fiduciary responsibilities. Bottom line: there is minimal paper work and bookkeeping to establish and maintain a SEP, and costs for lawyers, actuaries and accountants are sharply reduced — and may even be eliminated.

With a SEP, the employer can make tax-deductible contributions of up to 15 percent compensation or $30,000, whichever is less, for himself and each eligible employee. Because these contributions are "discretionary," employers can choose to change the level of contributions from year to year, or even skip making contributions altogether.

Like an IRA. The SEP helps the small business owner and professional plan for tomorrow's retirement needs while enjoying tax deductions today. One of the primary advantages of SEPs over IRAs is that more money can be contributed each year, since the IRA has a maximum contribution limit of $2,000 per person vs. 15 percent of compensation up to $30,000 for SEPs. Also, unlike IRAs, all SEP contributions remain fully tax deductible after the Tax Reform Act of 1986.

Who can establish a SEP? A SEP could prove beneficial whether you're a small- to medium-sized company, corporation or Subchapter S corporation, partnership, sole proprietor, professional association or individual with outside income.

A SEP may be used as a supplementary plan to allow for additional contributions at the employer's descretion. Because of its simplicity and flexibility, it's especially well-suited for new business or companies with volatile profit history.

A salary reduction option. Certain smaller employers — those with 25 or fewer eligible employees — can also choose to take advantage of a salary reduction option for SEPs, introduced by the TRA '86. It's called "CODA SEP" (Cash or Deferred Arrangement SEP). Like a 401(k) plan, CODA SEP lets employees make their own, pre-tax contributions to the plan through automatic payroll deductions. Contributions can be up to the lesser of 15 percent of salary or $8,728 (for 1992, as indexed for inflation), are free of federal and, in many cases, state and local income taxes. One difference from the 401(k) plan is that no employer "matching" is allowed.

If you are looking to spend more time running your business than administering your retirement plan, the SEP or CODA SEP are worth considering as a simple, low cost alternative. The plan can also be set up, and contributions made, by tax filing deadline (April 15) plus extensions, not necessarily by year-end.

Service matches students, scholarships

Currently, college costs average approximately $8,500 per year for state-run colleges, $16,000 for private colleges, and $24,000 for Ivy League Schools. In comparison, the median American family income is $25,976. College costs can literally eat up ⅓, ½, or more of a family's yearly income, depending on the chosen college.

Not only is the cost of college high now, it is also rising at an incredible rate. For the past several years, college costs have risen higher than inflation. The College Board recently reported that the cost of attending public colleges and universities alone increased at a double-digit rate for the second straight year, far surpassing state and federal financial aid. At that rate, college will soon be out of reach for most people.

Many people opt for financial aid programs administered through ACT but don't always get enough aid since much of the available aid covers only part of the cost.

According to the National Commission on Student Financial Assistance, as much as $6.6 billion in aid from corporations has gone unclaimed because people did not know the money existed or how to apply for it. Around $135 million in student aid will go unused this year, according to other reports.

A scholarship-matching service can help students find little-known scholarships. These scholarships are not all based upon GPA or financial need, many are based upon interests, major, age, ethnic background, etc. Aid is available for both students and adults who want to earn a degree.

The V.I.B. money back guarantee states that six sources of non-governmental financial aid will be located.

Principal prepayment can be helpful

By Ann Mary Marvin
Sierra R.E. Services

Thirty-year mortgages were designed by and for bankers, not homeowners. Not only will you be required to pay back the money you borrowed, you may end up paying back more than 300 percent of the amount you borrowed.

This is especially true in Southern California because housing prices are so high. If you are only making the required payments on your home loan, you are needlessly throwing away thousands of dollars in interest payments. Alternatively, this cash could go into savings, retirement funds, your child's college education, or just plain pleasure spending.

Principal prepayment is the solution. It is very simple, anyone can do it, and on any type of loan. It does not require refinancing, points, appraisals, credit checks, or any other such delightful goodies.

Principal prepayment as a form of mortgage reduction will generate four benefits: 1. Huge savings (usually more than $100,000). 2. A dramatic increase in home equity build-up. 3. Shorten the life of the loan by around eight years. 4. Lowers the effective interest rate.

Sierra R.E. Services offers six mortgage reduction strategies, including the Equity Corp simulated biweekly loan, enabling you to pick the one best suited to your financial situation. A customized analysis of your loan will forecast exact savings, equity build-up, and for the investor, before and after tax gains.

The telephone number is (714) 572-0509. Even if you don't call, make the effort to prepay on your loan. You work hard for your money, make it work hard for you.

Plan now to meet college expenses

By Bryon Elson
King Features Syndicate

DOLLARS & SENSE

With college costs rising at an average of 6 percent to 7 percent annually, a family now needs to set aside nearly $4,000 per year, at an interest rate of 7 percent to 8 percent per year, to cover the full costs of a bachelor's degree for their newborn child. Early planning gives you the opportunity to take greater investment risks, which traditionally result in higher yields.

Your investment decisions should be guided in part by your child's age. If your children are under age 14, you can boost their college savings and minimize your taxes by shifting assets to them. This will enable each child to generate as much as $1,200 in unearned income that will be taxed at a much lower rate than your own.

Under the "kiddie tax" rules, the first $600 of your child's unearned income (interest, dividends and other investment income) is tax-free. The next $600 is taxed at the child's rate, usually 15 percent. Any unearned income exceeding this amount is taxed at the parents' highest marginal rate.

The "kiddie tax" does not apply to children age 14 and over. If you can transfer cash, property and other assets to your child, the unearned income will be taxed at the child's highest marginal rate.

The Uniform Gifts to Minors Act (UGMA), or the newer Uniform Transfer to Minors Act (UTMA), enables you to set up custodial accounts for transferring stocks, bonds and other property to your child. Income from a custodial account is taxable to the child, subject to the "kiddie tax" mentioned above.

United States Savings Bonds are especially well-suited to college savings plans because the bonds produced tax-deferred savings that compound interest until you cash them in. You can time their maturity to coincide with when you expect to be making tuition payments. Also consider buying bonds in your child's name that mature after the child reaches age 14. When he or she redeems the bonds, the interest will be taxed at the child's lower rate.

If the proceeds from Series EE Bonds issued after Dec. 31, 1989 are used to pay for tuition, the interest earned may be tax-free for a married couple, filing jointly, with a combned adjusted income below $66,200. For a couple with a combined adjusted gross income between $66,200 and $96,200, there are also benefits, but there are restrictions and only part of the interest is tax-free.

Be careful to avoid credit emergency

While a realistic evaluation of your financial obligations should be done on a regular basis to determine where you stand, many people have no idea what ot look for — or what to do.

With this in mind, MasterCard international suggests the following nine-point checklist for recognizing the warning signs of a credit emergency and general financial difficulty:

- You are always late paying your bills.
- You're paying in 60 or 90 days what you used to pay within 30.
- You are unable to make the minimum payment required on your credit card statement(s).
- You are going over or frequently approaching the credit limit on your card(s).
- You're using checking account credit lines or cash advances to pay your bills.
- You're routinely tapping your savings to pay everyday living expenses.
- You find yourself juggling bills, having to decide which bills you can pay and which you can't.
- You are delaying visits to dentists or physicians because you can't currently afford them.
- You've been turned down when applying for credit.

If you are already in a position where you cannot meet a payment on one of your credit accounts, take immediate action.

Call the creditor and explain your situation. Give him/her a realistic appraisal of your future financial prospects and structure a new schedule for repayment of your balance that you both feel confident will work. Maintain contact with your creditor until your problem is resolved.

ORTEGA: Appreciate your local police officer who have sworn to uphold the laws of this state and this great country.

Within the past 30 days, two officers were killed in Compton, another officer in Inglewood was ambushed while sitting in his car. Fortunately, his vest saved his life. And now a young officer in Garden Grove has paid the ultimate price. I think I can speak for officers everywhere when I say that we're getting a little tired of wearing black bands around our badges in memory of another fallen comrade and brother.

The irony of these incidents is that tonight, men and women all over this country will leave their homes, kiss their loved ones goodbye, put on that uniform, gun and badge, and take to the streets. They will stop suspicious cars and walk up to the vehicle not knowing what they will encounter. They will respond to unknown trouble calls and take that long walk to a front door not knowing what lies behind that door. They will write citations and make arrests and take verbal abuse from those same people they are citing and arresting. But it's OK because that is what they get paid to do. You and I will be home sleeping, comforted in the knowledge that those officers are doing their job and protecting all of us.

I did not see the killing of a police officer get any headlines in our local newspapers. Instead, I see the trial of four police officers being tried in the Rodney King beating. Have we become so uncaring in what is going on around us every single day that the cold-blooded killing of an officer takes the back seat to a trial involving an alleged assault which took place over two years ago?

I've been a cop for more than 25 years and I would make the same career decision today. I am sure that if we had the ability to ask those officers who have given their lives, they too would make that same choice of a profession. That is the way we are and that is the way we feel about the law enforcement profession.

I began writing this article because I had to tell someone how I feel and the sadness I am experiencing over these killings. I wanted you, the citizens we serve, to know how much these men and women care about you and those you love.

If I was granted two wishes, the first would be to bring back all my fallen brothers and sisters who have died while serving their communities. The second wish would be that each of you show your appreciation to the officers and deputies who work 24 hours of every day to keep you safe. I don't mean walking up and telling them how you feel. Most of the officers I know would settle for a smile and nod. It sure does make those long nights go by a little quicker knowing that what you are doing makes a difference to those you have sworn to protect.

Manuel E. Ortega is the police chief of Placentia.

'Barnum' is loaded with fun, energy

Fullerton College Theater resembles three-ring circus

By Peggy O'Hara
Correspondent

You'll love "Barnum" from the minute you enter the Fullerton College Theater.

There's a stunning 19th century circus set, painted in nostalgic soft hues, clowns, jugglers, lovely lady ushers and a razzle-dazzle aura that permeates the audience. If it isn't "the greatest show on earth," it is certainly the happiest, the most fun musical theater playing anywhere in Southern California.

Phineas Taylor Barnum, on whose life "Barnum" is based, was the "Prince o' humbug." Pete Shilaimon, who plays P. T., sings, dances, tumbles and even walks a tight rope. As his wife, Chairy Barnum, Michelle Ligouri is marvelous. Ditto for Rosalind Johnson who plays Joyce Heath, the oldest woman alive.

Sean McNall who is grand as General Tom Thumb and Jennifer Rosengarth whose voice is as grand and figure more graceful than the original Jenny Lind.

The story is like a sideshow circus and all the entertainers have absorbed the excitement and energy that Gary Krinke always brings to any production. John Vaughn's choreography and Doug Austin's musical direction compliment the action.

Introducing the show with "There is a Sucker Born Every Minute," Shilaimon sets the pace for non-stop action and enthusiasm. Johnson has the audience in her hand when she belts out "Thank God I'm Old." A lovely duet for Shilaimon and Ligouri, "The Colors of My Life," defines their personalities.

"One Brick at a Time" involves the entire company, juggling, dancing and singing as Barnum's early museum is constructed. Rosengarth is thrilling as she sings "Love Makes Such Fools of Us All"

Scene designer Rex Heuschkel has devised oversized furniture for McNall who sings "Bigger Isn't Better."

Ringmaster Dustin Dubreuil is always on hand to help the action along and he introduces the second act, accompanied by the entire ensemble and Barnum with "Come Follow The Band." Johnson's blues number "Black and White" is a feast for the eye and ear. Mela-Hoyt-Heydon's period costuming adds to the appeal of this show with both funny and lovely designs.

"Barnum" continues at Fullerton College tonight, Friday and Saturday at 8 and Sunday at 2 p.m.

You'll have a glorious time and so will anyone with a bit of child behind the facade. For tickets call 992-7294. You may be eligible for two tickets for the price of one special rate of $7.

Vanguard offers courageous 'Equus'

By Herman Boodman
Correspondent

Playwright Christopher Frye has said that he liked to bathe his ears in his own sound, and so it is with Peter Shaffer, the author of the very controversial and thought-provoking "Equus."

My hat is doffed in admiration for the Vanguard Theatre Ensemble's production of that daring show.

It does take lots of courage and it is very difficult to stage.

Not only does it carry the burden of a torrent of dialogue, but it requires performers to act in total nudity — something most community theater players are not willing to do.

For those of you who are not familiar with the plot, it is bizarre. A young man is undergoing mental treatment because he has deliberately blinded many horses. To give you any more details would take away the right of self discovery and will dampen the intensity of the plot.

Director Daniel Rosenblatt has had to wrestle with many difficult problems in how to make the story realistic and yet at the same time, enter the mind of the tormented youth.

Alan Strang, the mentally besieged patient, is well done by James Cude. The talented actor's better moments come during his silent monologue with his beloved horses.

Just a split moment away is his relationship with Dr. Dysart. The repartee comes easily and furiously at the same time.

Dr. Dysart, honestly portrayed by M. Issac Weishaus, carries the lion's share of the dialogue, pages and pages of words.

The play is slated to run through April 3. The theater is located at 699. S. State College Blvd., Fullerton. Ticket information and reservations may be obtained by calling 526-8007.

MOVIE REVIEW

Fonda can't carry 'Point' of No Return'

By Larry Katz
Correspondent

First "Sommersby," and then "The Vanishing," now we get "Point of No Return" as the third remake of a foreign film in recent weeks.

It's based on "La Femme Nikita." That film introduced American audiences to Annie Parillaud, who later starred in "Innocent Blood," a film guilty of mediocrity.

In "Point of No Return," Bridget Fonda plays an emotionally unstable woman. When she kills a cop, she's sentenced to death. Enter Gabriel Byrne, a "covert" agent who fakes her execution. Why? He feels she fits the profile of an assassin. To mold her, the film takes on a "My Fair Lady" look.

"Point of No Return" gives Fonda ("Single White Female") a chance to carry a film. While she does a credible job, the character leaves her with very little appeal. She's neither a heroine or a romantic antiheroine. Meanwhile, director John Badham's attempt to create a suspenseful assassination scenario is lukewarm.

The original "Le Femme Nikita" was more intriguing, but neither film was a distinguished creation.

NCN's best: Erickson, St. Clair

Nicole Erickson of Brea Olinda has experienced nothing except state championships as the Ladycats' point guard the past three seasons.

Jack Hancock/ North County News

Sonora has turned its program around thanks in large part to Chris St. Clair, who led the Raiders to a Freeway League title this season.

Point guard buoyed state champs

By Rusty Evans
North County News

What more can Nicole Erickson accomplish?

Erickson, who led the Brea Olinda Ladycats to their fourth state title in five years (including all three of her years at the school), is only a junior, but has won and done nearly everything possible in three years.

Erickson, a 5-9 point guard who averaged 22.4 points per game this season for the 32-2 Ladycats, has been selected Player of the Year on the All-North County News girls basketball team.

It was Erickson who sank a 12-foot jumper with two seconds remaining in Friday's CIF State Division II championship game to give Brea a 42-41 win over Bella Vista at Oakland Coliseum Arena. It was the second year in a row Erickson's last-minute basket brought the Ladycats a state championship.

Erickson is unparalleled as a point guard in Orange County girls basketball, with exceptional ballhandling, passing and leadership skills. But she is equally valuable as a scorer, both inside and from outside.

"What makes Nicole so valuable is the intangible," said Brea Olinda coach Mark Trakh. "She scores and she handles the ball and she plays defense, but the bottom line is she makes everyone out there better."

Erickson's three three-point goals in the final with Bella Vista set two records — most in a Division II championship game, and most career three-pointers (158) by an Orange County player, eclipsing the mark of 156 set by Cindy Yamasaki of Los Alamitos.

Erickson was voted Most Valuable Player of the Orange League, in which the Ladycats breezed to a 10-0 record and the championship, winning every game by nearly 50 points.

Joining Erickson on the All-NCN First Team are Tara Earl of Villa Park; Jamie Shine of El Modena; Chris Carillo of Katella; and La Habra's Martha Hernandez.

The NCN's Coach of the Year is Villa Park's Len Whitacre.

Earl, a senior, was the leader of the Spartans' 17-7 team that won the Century League title for the first time in 10 years. She averaged 15 points, 6.1 steals and 5.1 rebounds per game, and was symbolic of the all-out effort of the team that turned things around at Villa Park this year.

Raiders' top scorer likes defense

By Greg Mascio
North County News

Three years ago, when Mike Murphy accepted the position of basketball coach at Sonora High, the rookie coach knew success would take time if it were to ever occur.

Realizing the team would have to take its lumps before it began to dish them out, Murphy called upon a number of young, not-ready-for-varsity-time players to begin the rebuilding phase.

Chris St. Clair was one of those players. And although most weren't prepared for the rigors of varsity basketball (the team went 5-19), the 6-foot guard made it clear he was ready.

"When he was a sophomore, I knew he was going to be a great player," Murphy said. "There was no doubt in my mind. He was so good but we were so bad. I told people he's the best-kept secret in Orange County."

In three seasons with the Raiders, St. Clair broke school records for points in a career (1,575), season (630) and game (40), three-pointers in a season (62), and three-point percentage (54 percent).

The secret is out.

This year St. Clair averaged 22 points, 6.3 assists and five steals a game and is the North County News Player of the Year.

"He's such a complete player," Murphy said. "But more than anything he was a prolific scorer. Basketball is a game of streaks and sometimes teams have a hard time getting a basket. But we never went into any of those lulls because Chris could always get a basket. He could score at anytime."

St. Clair could also stop others from scoring, an asset of his game he was proud of.

"It was always exciting for me to go up against a team's best player and try to shut them down," St. Clair said.

Joining St. Clair on the first team is Frankie Floyd of Western, Aaron Aguilera of El Modena, Brian Carlson of Katella, and Kennedy's Jeff Cummins.

Playing in a league (Orange) known for its defensive battles, Floyd managed to average 19.4 points per game. He also single-handedly kept the Pioneers in a number of close games during the season.

Against league-champion Magnolia, Floyd, the league's MVP, scored 24 of the Pioneers' 39 points. He also scored a season-high 35 (the rest of the team only scored 16) against Valencia.

Schumerth tabbed boys soccer's top player

By Lance Pugmire
North County News

At first glance, the best high school boys soccer player in North Orange County looks like he still has three months to go in junior high life.

Esperanza High senior defender Peter Schumerth, a 5-3, 120-pounder who whizzes past opponents struggling to get their bigger legs to keep up, stood at the pinnacle of his sport nearly three weeks ago.

The unseeded, Empire League-winning Aztecs upset top-seeded Santa Ana Valley, 2-1, to become the CIF Southern Section Division II champions March 5.

Schumerth, helping to thwart an offense that had produced five goals in its semifinal victory, was later named the Division II Defensive Player of the Year while earning All-CIF first-team recognition.

Today, he's the North County News Player of the Year.

"I wanted to assume the role of leader," said Schumerth, the Aztecs' captain. "We had a lot of younger guys on the team and I know that when I played as a sophomore, I was super nervous.

"We played the best soccer I've ever played in my life. And it was the funnest time of my life."

The Orange County Soccer Coaches Association compiled an All-Orange County first team that included Schumerth and three other local players — two forwards and a midfielder — all named to the 11-player NCN team.

One of those, Orange senior forward Robert Rodriguez, scored 14 goals for the Panthers, who finished fourth in the demanding Century League.

Kennedy senior forward Ryan Bean was another All-County choice, scoring 30 goals for the Fighting Irish, breaking the school's scoring record by 10. The Garden Grove League's offensive player of the year, Bean scored six goals in a game against Savanna and also set another school mark by tallying a goal 15 seconds into another game.

Jason Covarrubias, a junior forward at Western, was named the Orange League's most valuable offensive player after scoring 16 goals with seven assists. Covarrubias proved durable as well, playing in 1,500 of the Pioneers' 1,600 game minutes this season.

Esperanza senior forward Greg Massey scored a team-high 13 goals that included the league clincher in a 1-0 win against El Dorado. Additionally, he was named an All-CIF first-team member and he will participate in the April 24 Orange County All-Star Game at Chapman University.

His team finished runner-up to Brea Olinda, but Anaheim senior midfielder Alex Perez was the Orange League's most valuable player.

Sonora midfielder Chris Fernandez, a member of the under-17 junior national team, earned All-CIF recognition while helping the Raiders to a second-place finish and a berth in the Division III semifinals.

El Modena senior Matt Young shifted from sweeper to midfield this season and earned All-CIF third-team kudos after helping the Century League runner-up Vanguards reel off a playoff upset over third-seeded San Clemente before losing to Esperanza.

Vanguards coach Jim Schultz credited Young for his team's ball-control success. Young added four goals and three assists.

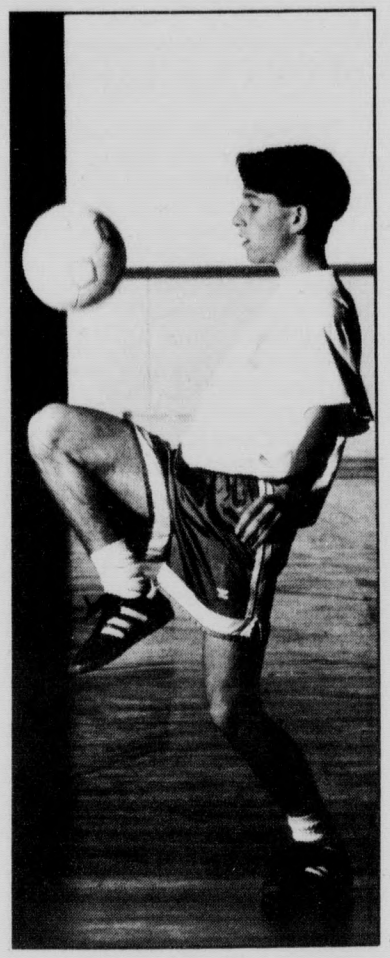

Brea senior defender Glen Lakin was the Orange League's most valuable defensive player, helping the league-champion Wildcats to a 12-2-4 regular season record.

El Dorado senior Scott Schalliol moved from halfback to sweeper and helped the Empire League runner-up Golden Hawks allow only six goals in 10 league games. A third-team All-CIF selection, Schalliol also scored three goals with eight assists.

Goalie George Allison, a senior from Esperanza, proved vital in the Aztecs' posting of quarterfinal and semifinal playoff shutouts. Allison, having contributed to seven league shutouts, oversaw a defense that kept Esperanza unbeaten in 1993, ending the season on a 15-0-2 run.

Coach of the year is Esperanza's Kino Oaxaca. Faced with a team that possessed three returning starters, Oaxaca received bad news when leading scorer Kyle Mears suffered a season-ending injury during non-league action.

Citing a unity of which Oaxaca said he hadn't seen before, the seventh-year coach ended up with a 19-2-5 squad that provided him a first-ever CIF championship just days after his mother passed away because of cancer.

Canyon's Tina Thompson, the NCN girls soccer Player of the Year, may be the county's best goalie ever.

Canyon's Thompson gains girls honor

By Lance Pugmire
North County News

At the end of Canyon High girls soccer games this past season, Comanches coach John Williams would catch up to senior goalie Tina Thompson and pass along his gratitude.

"Thanks for everything," would be Williams' standard line.

Thompson, having drilled a defense that posted the second most shutouts in CIF Southern Section history (22), would reply as if she just walked out of a coal mine, dirtied:

"John, it's just my job."

"I was back there for one reason," said Thompson, the San Diego State-bound goalie who has earned recognition as the All-North County News girls soccer player of the year.

A member of the under-19 Olympic Development Team, Thompson had already been saluted as a Parade Magazine All-American and the Century League's most valuable player.

Thompson's solitary ambition — shutouts — helped two-time Century League champion Canyon (25-3) advance to the Division II championship game.

Similarly, the other 10 members of the NCN first team also went about their respective business in a successful manner, gaining praise from teammates, opponents and coaches alike.

ALL-NCN GIRLS SOCCER

PLAYER OF THE YEAR:
Tina Thompson, Sr., Canyon
COACH OF THE YEAR:
Tino Younger, El Modena
FIRST TEAM:
Forwards — Kim Campbell, Sr., Canyon; Krista Broughton, Jr., Canyon; Jamie Gardiner, Sr., Sunny Hills; Adrienne Poan, Sr., Kennedy.
Midfielders — Rhonda Partida, Jr., Sunny Hills; Megan Murray, Sr., Esperanza; Pam Schenk, Sr., Katella.
Sweepers/Defenders — Carrie Fair, Sr., Canyon; Kristy Johnson, Sr., Brea Olinda; Brenda Hinrichs, Sr., El Modena.
Goaltender — Thompson.
HONORABLE MENTION:
Amber Dickey, F, Valencia; Kristi Hales, F, El Modena; Laura Roundy, F, Orange; Kim Wyer, F, Savanna; Melissa Daerr, F, Cypress; Jenny Looney, MF, Canyon; Laurie Van Herk, MF, Kennedy; Kristin Watts, MF, Brea Olinda; Leah Russell, MF, Sunny Hills; Liz Green, MF, Villa Park; Brandy Chifares, MF, Cypress; Michael Cunningham, D, Sunny Hills; Kathy Haerle, D, Esperanza; Michelle Davies, D, Anaheim; Brenda Gravell, D, Western; Amy Moreno, G, El Modena; Juli Evers, G, Brea Olinda; Tammy Hyde, G, Loara; Kim Lumfdain, G, Cypress.

Canyon's Kim Campbell, the 1991-92 Orange County player of the year, finished with the most goals scored by any county player (34) for the third time in her four varsity years. She missed the majority of her sophomore season with a knee injury.

A senior headed to UC Santa Barbara next fall, Campbell missed four league games this season with what was first feared to be a ligament tear in her other knee. She returned in time for the playoffs, scoring in four of the Comanches' five contests.

Junior forward Krista Broughton contributed 24 goals for Canyon, notching game-winners against El Modena that clinched the Century League crown and helped her earn offensive MVP of the league.

When your 11-member team posts 22 shutouts in 28 games, there has to be more than one reason. Canyon senior sweeper Carrie Fair provided the final line of defense before Thompson.

Sunny Hills senior forward Jamie Gardiner tied Campbell for county scoring honors. The Lancers (20-3-2) won the Freeway League championship and advanced to the Division II semifinals, losing to Canyon. Gardiner was league MVP.

Sunny Hills junior midfielder Rhonda Partida was called one of the county's most technically sound players by one coach.

Adrienne Poan, a senior forward from Kennedy, helped the Fighting Irish win the Garden Grove League championship and two Division II playoff contests. She was the league's MVP and finished with 19 goals and eight assists.

Another player opponents will be happy to see graduate is Esperanza midfielder Megan Murray, who helped the Aztecs win two Empire League titles during her varsity career. She refined her game this season, becoming more technical than physical, and attracted college recruiters from Duke, Notre Dame and Washington.

The play of Katella senior midfielder Pam Schenk may have been overshadowed by her team's failure to gain a playoff berth, but Schenk wasn't forgotten. In addition to her first-team All-Empire League status, she was selected to participate in the April 24 Orange County All Star Girls Soccer Game.

Brea Olinda won the Orange League championship paced by an aggressive defense that featured senior defender Kristy Johnson, a first-team all-league selection.

The Century League's defensive MVP was El Modena's Brenda Hinrichs.

El Modena's Tino Younger receives Coach of the Year honors after guiding his Vanguards to a 16-5-3 mark. In his third season, Younger suffered only two Century League defeats — 1-0 setbacks to a team that possessed six more returning starters, Canyon.

PREP HONORS

GIRLS: Erickson selected Player of the Year

FROM 27

"Tara is the consummate practice player," said Whitacre. "Last year, we were 7-13. What Tara did in the off-season was channel all of that energy into learning the game. We expected the leadership from her — she has a very competitive personality."

That was evident when Earl suffered a severe ankle sprain, and although was expected to be out six to eight weeks, missed only five games.

Carrillo, a 5-4 junior point guard, led the Knights to the Empire League co-championship with El Dorado, averaging 17 points, four rebounds, 4.9 assists and 2.6 steals per game.

While she made her mark as a scorer this year, Carrillo earned her coach's praise for the intangibles she possesses.

"She's a tough competitor," said Katella coach Shelly Noble. "She does not like to lose. She has a lot of perseverance and a lot of desire. I've coached a lot of players and she is the best I've ever coached."

Carrillo also earned the respect of the Empire League coaches, as she was voted Empire League Co-Most Valuable Player with Jessica Eggleston of Cypress.

Shine, a 6-0 senior forward, was also named Most Valuable Player — of the Century League.

"She is a fabulous player," said Whitacre. "She has great speed. Blazing speed, which you don't often see in a big girl. And good court sense."

Shine was the Century League's leading scorer, averaging 16.6 points. She also averaged 12.8 rebounds.

"Jamie faced box-and-one defenses, double and triple teams all year long and she still got her 17, 18 points a game," said El Modena coach John Cahill of his senior team captain. "She had to create ways to score with three defenders on her."

Hernandez, who started every varsity game all four years at La Habra, was voted the Freeway League's Most Valuable Player after leading the Highlanders to a second-place finish with a very young team.

Hernandez, a 5-7 senior, averaged 14.6 points, 6.1 steals and 5.1 assists for La Habra, but Coach John Koehler says her leadership stood out most of all.

"We had eight players on our team who were either freshmen or sophomores, and she was our mainstay," said Koehler. "There were other girls around with more points, but she did so many things. She broke presses, broke down defenses — she was our all-around leader."

Taking over a team that was 27-73 over the last five years, and that had not had a winning record since 1984, Whitacre led the Spartans to a 17-7 record and a Century League title.

The All-NCN Second Team — Colleen Hudson of Brea, Jessica Eggleston of Cypress, El Dorado's Jody Caruso, Maureen Skehan of Villa Park, and Troy's Brandee Richardson — was as diverse as the first team, and each player was a first-team all-leaguer in her respective league.

league," Western coach Matt Cavanaugh said of Floyd, who also averaged 8.6 rebounds. "When things were tough for us we went to him. He did a great job when the game was on the line. We didn't face anyone as tough as Frankie was."

Aguilera secured his second consecutive Century League MVP honor this year by averaging 14.4 points and 10.6 rebounds. The forward/center also helped the Vanguards earn a third straight league title.

According to El Modena coach Tim Tivenan, Aguilera's success as a rebounder wasn't a product of great leaping ability, but from an ability to get the most out of his 6-3 frame.

"He was a tremendous rebounder because he was a hard worker who knew how to get to the ball," Tivenan said. "He was just as good on the offensive boards as he was defensively. He only had one more defensive rebound than offensive rebound. He wasn't that fast and he didn't jump well but he got the most out of his body."

Carlson was the only player in Katella history to have started in each of his four years in high school and he made the most of each year. As a freshman he earned the Knights' Rookie of the Year award, as a sophomore he earned the team's Defensive Player of the Year award, and in his final two seasons he was the Knights' MVP.

Carlson capped his career by averaging 19.8 points this season and forever earned the respect of Katella coach Tom Danley.

"If you were to ask me if he was the highest scorer we ever had, I would say no. Was he the best rebounder? No. Did he lead us to the CIF championship? No. But if you were to ask me if he was one of the most well-rounded players I've ever had in my 27 years here, I would say yes," Danley said. "He wasn't a guard, he wasn't a forward and he wasn't a center. He was a basketball player. And a damn good one."

Sparked by the play of Cummins, Kennedy advanced to the semifinals of the CIF Southern Section Division II-A playoffs.

The Coach of the Year is Murphy, who turned the Raiders around from the aforementioned record in his first season to a 23-4 mark this year and advancement to the quarterfinals.

The second team consists of Esperanza's Mike Thimgan, Kennedy's Pat Kunz, Aaron Williams of Magnolia, Adonis Pappas of Canyon, and Gil Gonzalez of Orange.

Sato, Sibrie best of area wrestling crop

By Lance Pugmire
North County News

At the time, it felt like the worst moment in Wali Sibrie's wrestling life.

It turned out to be a turning point for the Buena Park High junior who now stands as the second-best high school wrestling heavyweight in California and the North County News co-wrestler of the year with Savanna junior Teak Sato.

But on Feb. 10, Sibrie was circled by frustration when he was defeated — by pin nonetheless — against Sunny Hills' Josh Micklos in the Freeway League final. A state qualifier in the 1991-92 school year, Sibrie couldn't fathom such upcoming events as the CIF Southern Section, Masters and State meets after the defeat.

"I was just shocked, in disbelief," Sibrie said. "I was very, very upset."

In following successive weekends, however, Sibrie finished second in the Southern Section, first at Masters and then completed his 56-5, 38-pin season in Stockton.

A 125-pound junior, Sato was another state meet runner-up. The Orange League champion, he was decisioned, 6-5, at state after helping the Rebels earn a team league title and advance to the Division I Dual Meet semifinals.

Sato, who finished with a 58-4 record, was the Division I 125-pound champion before finishing second at the Masters.

At the 11 other weights, other All-NCN members also strove, and attained, individual success that proved rare in their taxing sport.

Canyon's 112-pound senior Kenny Allen was a Division I qualifier for the second consecutive year. All-NCN recognition also goes to Comanches junior 119-pounder Cesar Trejo and 135-pound senior David Gayer. Canyon's Jerred Merrill, the 152-pound senior Century League champion, shares All-NCN merit with El Modena senior Roger Martinez, who also advanced to the Division I meet.

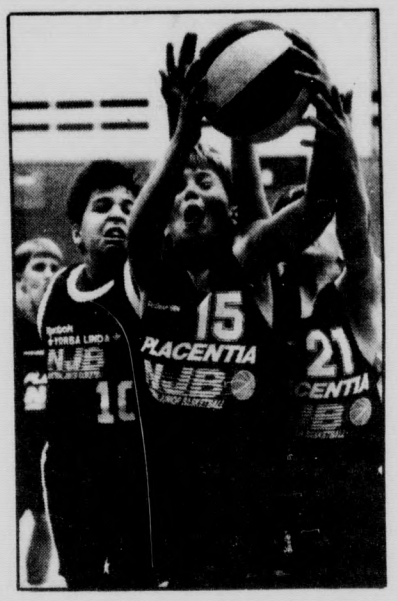

El Dorado, Empire League champion and a Division II Dual Meet semifinalist, places senior Joe Lipps at 171.

El Modena's Alan Clinton is the NCN Coach of the Year after toppling Canyon in his eighth year.

Local teams could still earn berths

North County News

In last weekend's area tournament play to determine national tournament qualifiers, the Boys Division 3 National Junior Basketball all-stars from Placentia fell to Brea, 69-49, in the title game.

The Placentians qualified for Sunday's final by edging rival Yorba Linda Saturday, 53-52.

Chris Bales led the locals in both games, scoring 16 points against Yorba Linda before returning to net 19 against Brea.

The squad still could earn a berth in the national tournament, which begins April 3 at Fullerton College, if it can survive a runner-up tournament this weekend.

Other Placentia teams playing for a national tourney berth this weekend are the Division 2 all-stars, which lost to Westminster Saturday before bouncing back Sunday to edge Palm Springs, and the Division 1 stars, who whipped Villa Park by a 64-57 count Sunday.

The All-Net championship playoffs began last week, also, with the seventh grade Placentia Knicks splitting two games.

The Knicks opened with a 70-35 setback against a talented Trabuco Hills team before settling in the next day to beat Fountain Valley, 54-48.

In Sunday's triumph, Sal Leanos was dominant, pouring in 26 points to go with 13 rebounds while Mark Casias and Eric Shiwlall each nailed key three-pointers down the stretch.

In eighth grade All-Net playoff action, the Placentia Running Rebels were defeated, 48-40, by El Toro and 68-63 by North Huntington Beach to end their season.

PROJECT-OF-THE-WEEK

by Craft Patterns™

MAILBOX PLAN PACKET
Includes #1638 plus barn-style, chalet-style mailboxes, Uncle Sam mailbox support and decorative support post plans. #7035...$12.95.

PLANTER MAILBOX COVER PLAN
Here's a project that will perk-up your daily postal pilgrimage. Designed to slip over an existing metal mailbox, this wooden cover will give new life to an otherwise bland letter receptacle. Planter boxes are located on each side of the cover, and there's a built-in holder for your newspaper. Very little time and material is required and parts that trace directly from the plan to your lumber can be cut with hand-held tools. (#1638...$6.95)

NEW! 1993
PROJECT PLAN CATALOG
This new, 100-page catalog pictures over 400 project plan ideas for indoor and outdoor furniture, outdoor structures, play gyms and playhouses, rocking horses, toys, doll houses, home improvement, holiday lawn decorations and more! Even if you are a first-time do-it-yourselfer, all of the plans include full-size, traceable patterns for exactly transferring the shape of parts to your material. Most items can be built with hand tools and modest woodworking skills. (#92...$3.00)

CAR CARE CORNER

THE AUTO TUTOR

Solutions to your car problems from the Automobile Club of Southern California

QUESTION: When I try to unlock the driver's door of my 1980 Toyota Corolla, the key will turn in the lock cylinder easily, but will not unlock the door. What could have happened and how can I get it fixed? — D.O.

ANSWER: Either one of the door control rods inside the door may have slipped out of its slot in the mechanism, or one of the plastic connectors which hold the rods in place may have broken and caused the rod to fall out. The fix is simple; replace the plastic connectors, or push the rod back into place. The difficulty is that you must carefully remove the interior door panel trim from the inside of the door to expose those parts. Without proper tools, you may ruin either the trim panel (expensive!) or break the plastic clips that hold it in place. The Auto Club suggests that you save a lot of trouble and have a knowledgeable mechanic or auto upholstry shop do the work.

QUESTION: I have a 1978 Toyota Corolla. My mechanic said that it needs a pre-heater hose to pass the smog test. What is a pre-heater hose and what does it do? — A.P.

ANSWER: A pre-heater hose is the air duct that goes from the heat exchanger on the exhaust manifold to the automatic hot air intake valve on the air cleaner intake. It allows the intake air to warm up faster, which helps the carburetor operate at proper air-fuel mixture sooner. This enables the engine to run cleaner, sooner. The hot air intake system also protects the carburetor from icing up in cold weather, which helps reduce air pollution.

QUESTION: I have a 1964 Studebaker Hawk. Can you direct me to a good mechanic with expertise in Studebakers? — B.C.

ANSWER: You can find a list of garages, parts houses and car clubs in Hemmings Motor News, which is available at most large newsstands. The clubs are excellent sources of technical information and members usually know good mechanics who understand and appreciate the Studebaker. One club is the Studebaker Drivers' Club, Orange Empire Chapter, 7812 Vicksburg Ave., Westchester, CA 90045. This advice is applicable to all old and rare cars.

QUESTION: I have a 1979 Toyoto Celica with 180,000 miles on it, and so far, it hasn't needed any major repairs. I change the engine oil every 3,000 miles and have the engine tuned every six to eight months. How much longer do you recommend I wait before buying a new car, or do you think it's about time? — S.L.

ANSWER: As the old familiar saying goes, "If it isn't broke, don't fix it." Apparently, you have given this car excellent maintenance. The "average" life of any engine, properly matched to the vehicle it's in, is anywhere between 125,000 and 150,000 miles. As you can see, your excellent care of the vehicle paid off. As long as the car is working fine, doesn't give you problems with major repairs and you still enjoy driving it, there is no real reason to replace it with a new(er) car.

While it's great that this car has performed for so many miles without major repairs, they may be just around the corner. An alternative may be to sell or trade the vehile while it still runs well and before major repairs have to be made.

QUESTION: My 1990 Chrysler Le Baron was in an accident, during which the airbag was deployed. The car is going to be repaired, but my concern is, will the airbag system work correctly? It is my understanding that there are sensors in various locations in front of the car which trigger the system. Do you know anything about this? — C.M.

ANSWER: Your concern is a valid one. Only the dealerships for your specific make of car are authorized to perform this kind of repair. They have trained personnel to remount and test the airbag system once it's been repaired; nobody else has the training or equipment to do this.

In order to rapair the system, most operating components are replaced. All airbag restraint systems have a check light which will confirm if the system is operational. Check the owner's manual regarding this check light.

QUESTION: I have a 1983 Chevrolet Camaro with the crossfire fuel injection system. There is a tube going from the exhaust gas recirculation valve to the catalytic converter that has gone bad and is causing my car to run poorly. I'll need to get a smog certificate for the car soon, and I have been told that it will not pass with this tube the way it is. I have called various Chevrolet dealers in my area, and they tell me the part is no longer available. What can I do? — B.C.

ANSWER: We checked with a local Chevrolet dealer and found that the part is still available, but it is not in stock. It is a special order item (part 14065702, catalytic converter air injection pipe). If you have any more problems getting the part, call the General Motors technical lines at 1-800-551-4123, or Hard to Find Smog Parts at 1-800-825-2566.

QUESTION: Why do some cars use disc brake only on their front wheels while others have them on all four wheels? — O.R.

ANSWER: Disc brakes are used on the front wheels of most vehicles because they perform more efficiently and reliably than drum brakes in most types of driving. The exposed rotors on disc brakes dissipate heat and shed water more effectively then enclosed drum brakes, so they retain their stopping ability during hard or repeated braking and wet weather driving. This is important because the vehicle's front brakes can contribute up to 75 percent of its stopping ability. Since the rear brakes contribute a smaller percentage of a vehicle's stopping power, auto makers can save money by using the less expensive drum type on the rear without greatly compromising braking performance.

CLASSIC CAR OF THE WEEK

M. Loren Hernandez/North County News

This 1946 award-winning red Ford coupe can be seen moving about north Orange County on occasion. Behind the wheel will be its proud owner, Bill Soukup. Soukup says the car has been the recipient of awards at various car shows. The car also appeared on the cover and was accompanied by a feature article in the February 1993 issue of Strut Rodder magazine. Soukup said the car is powered by a 350 Chevy engine, with 625 CFM and Carter AFB. The transmission is a 350 turbo hydramatic-shift kit. Options include air conditioning, power steering, chrome trim interior with charcoal gray wool upholstery. The car's side trim has been removed as were the door handles.

Car care quiz made easy (or is it?)

Car troubles can be deceiving. It often takes an astute, well-equipped technician to track down the source of a problem. But some of the most common difficulties can be diagnosed with a little common sense by the owner. Such is the case in this series of five situations suggested by the Car Care Council. Each question has three correct answers.

1. If the tread on your tires is wearing:
   a. tire pressure is incorrect.
   b. the car has binding ball joints.
   c. the wheels are misaligned.
   d. the wheels are out of balance.
2. If your turn signal doesn't flash properly, the reason could be:
   a. a burned out bulb.
   b. a bad connection.
   c. a defective flasher.
   d. an inoperative ignition switch.
3. Three reasons for a car to become a "gas-hog" are:
   a. a dirty air filter.
   b. the power steering belt is adjusted too tight.
   c. low tire pressure.
   d. worn spark plugs.
4. The reasons your brakes may squeal or vibrate are:
   a. oil on the the brake linings.
   b. worn disc brake pads or linings.
   c. normal vibarations set up by semi-metallic linings.
   d. loose components on one or more wheels.
5. A battery goes dead because of:
   a. old age.
   b. a faulty alternator
   c. excessive high speed

Answer Key
1. All but "b" are correct.
2. All but "d" are correct.
3. All but "b" are correct.
4. All but "a" are correct.
5. All but "c" are correct.

How to find cause of leaking vehicle

Place a paper under your car if it leaks, then take the paper to a mechanic. He probably can tell if the leak is coming from the transmission, engine, radiator, brakes, power steering, rear axle or gas tank by studying the paper.

Retired drivers need to be aware of unnecessary auto insurance extras

By Martha A. McSteen

An auto insurance policy that protects against lost wages is a great idea for working Americans. But for those insured drivers who are retired, it's nothing but a drain on their wallets — and a financial windfall for insurers.

Wage-replacement insurance obviously is unnecessary for those who have left the work force. Yet insurers continue to sell it to retirees who are unaware they are paying for it.

How many seniors are affected by this procedure in how many states is anybody's guess. No one knows, although those familiar with the problem believe it could be a substantial number of seniors in many states.

On the surface, the amount of money a retiree pays for this coverage isn't a whole lot — it averages between $25 and $70 a year. But those individual premiums collectively translate into tidy profits for insurance comapnies.

The coverage often is hidden deep inside the fine print and technical language of a policy. Sometimes called "lost wage insurance," it frequently is included under "personal injury protection" (which offers back-up insurance for medical expenses) or "uninsured motorist protection" (which covers drivers in collisions with motorists who have no insurance).

There are two important steps retirees should take to avoid paying needlessly for lost-wage protection.

First, ask your insurance agent if your state allows lost-wage protection and, if so, whether you're covered. Remember, it may be difficult to determine just by looking at the policy. Remind the agent that you're retired, then ask him to remove the coverage and request a rebate for the unexpired portion of the policy. Even if the insurance policy clearly shows you're retired, insurance companies have the right to continue charging for the coverage unless specifically asked to cancel the coverage. It's unfortunate, but right now, it's legal.

That's why step two is important to those people living in a lost-wage-protection state. Call local lawmakers and urge them to change the state law. Currently, it's not illegal to sell this unneeded coverage to retirees. But it should be. Legislation should require that those over 65 who are retired automatically be excluded from the lost-wages clause.

Most senior get by on fixed incomes. Paying for insurance coverage they don't need wastes those limited resources.

Check the policy. Call local lawmakers. The time for change is now.

Ms. McSteen is president of the National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare, Washington, D.C.

Replacing a thermostat isn't a difficult task

Why pay someone else to replace a thermostat? It's easy for knowledgeable do-it-yourselfers.

When purchasing a new thermostat, the parts clerk will need to know the car make, model, year and engine size. A new gasket is a must when replacing the thermostat. The radiator will need to at least be partially drained and any lost coolant replaced.

Real estate investment fruad on rise

Patrick Veling's
PROPERTY LINES

The same economic factors that are driving down Orange County real estate values are driving up the incidence of real estate investment fraud.

Many local investors have found their pooled funds have been lost in the purchase of over-valued properties. Others who deal in the sale and purchase of discounted trust deed notes have found the value of the properties which secured their investment have been insufficient to warrant a foreclosure action.

The result is that hundreds of Orange County residents — many of whom had put their retirement funds at risk — are unlikely to recover their investments.

Steven Ellis, an investigator with the California Department of Real Estate, says that investors should always be wary of promises of high returns in a depreciating real estate market, such as the one in which Southern California finds itself.

"Most income derived from real estate goes down in proportion to real estate values," Ellis said. "That's not to say that it is impossible to make money in a down market, but the risks of doing so increase disproportionately," he added.

"Investor greed is what feeds this type of fraud," Ellis continued. "When the returns on alternative investments — such as mutual funds or certificates of deposit — drop as low as they have in the recent past, the promise of 15 or 20 percent on an investor's money can sound too good to be true."

And it usually is.

Hill Williams, the Anaheim Hills development firm that pooled investor's funds on the promise of paying out big returns by developing entry level housing, actually paid investors 15 percent annually.

However, the money paid to investors wasn't earned by the firm. It is alleged to have been raised from other investors and paid out in what investigators believe to have been a classic Ponzi scheme. Such schemes are certain to fail when a lack of new funds prohibits the continued payment to investors.

In another case just coming to light, a high profile Newport Beach mortgage brokerage firm is alleged to have sold deeds of trusts to more than one investor, again on the promise of high returns for those willing to secure their investment with the worthless paper.

So what are some of the precautions an investor can take in order to ensure the protection of his or her investment?

There are only two. If you plan to invest in a real estate venture controlled by a party other than yourself, you must educate and investigate.

Without an understanding of real estate as an economy, a potential investor can't know how to investigate the feasibility of his investment and the firm with which the funds are being entrusted. Even the best firms, however, have at one time or another lost money for their investors.

"It's common knowledge that real estate values are declining," investigator Ellis said. "So the real cost of the investment must be low enough to allow for the development and sale over time and still generate a profit to be paid."

When the basics of real estate investment are understood, a potential investor can then look at each investment opportunity from a risk-to-return perspective and fully comprehend the risk. Only then — if the investment looks good — should an investor spend time and energy investigating the firm.

An investor should ask for references from those who have made money in other investments with the same firm, not just the offering under consideration. He or she should also ask for independent accounting references and audits, preferably from a reputable firm.

Be wary of internally generated profit statements or those from small accounting firms who have little or no reputation.

Finally, an investor shouldn't risk anymore than he or she can afford to lose. Hundreds of our neighbors would be far better off today if they had only done the same.

Fife cited at convention

Lou Fife of RE/MAX of North Orange County in Fullerton has received recognition as one of the top producing sales associates of RE/MAX of California and Hawaii.

Fife, a real estate professional for 16 years, was recognized with the pretigious President's Club Award at the RE/MAX annual convention in San Francisco.

A resident of Fullerton, Fife joined RE/MAX in 1990. This is her second year as a recipient of the award.

"On an average, RE/MAX sales associates outperform their nearest competitor by more than 3-1, so this recognition clearly establishes Fife as one of the top real estate professionals in the industry," said Ron Holborn, broker/owner of the Fullerton RE/MAX agency.

Lou Fife

More tham 1,000 RE/MAX affiliates from California and Hawaii attended the three-day event.

Achievers recognized

Century 21 Achievers, Yorba Linda, recently was honored as a top producer in sales activity among the nearly 6,000 offices worldwide.

The office qualified for the coveted Centurian Award by exceeding the minimum qualification of $1 million in gross closed commissions in 1992. Less than 2 percent of the Century 21 offices worldwide qualified for the honor in 1992. This marks the sixth time Achievers has earned the award.

"This achievement places Century 21 Achievers in a very prestigious and elite group of performers within the Century 21 system," said Richard J. Loughlin, president and CEO of Century 21 Real Estate Corp. "This award is a reflection of the decication of our staff to the needs of the community," said Martha Jansen, who with her husband, Jim, are broker/owners of Century 21 Achievers.

Sales active at Warmington Homes, Belsomet

Warmington Homes is reporting strong sales activity at its Belsomet community in Anaheim Hills, resulting in 15 homes sold over the last two months. The tremendous buyer interest in Belsomet is being attributed to the upscale Anaheim Hills location, the beautiful homes and the very attractive prices.

Recently, Warmington Homes added a new single-level floor plan design to its collection of three two-story homes at Belsomet. The response to this new design was immediate and overwhelming and Warmington completely sold out of all of the available single-level homes. Several more will be offered in the next phase.

"Since the beginning of the year, we have continued to report new sales every week at Belsomet," said Larry Riggs, executive vice president of Warmington Homes. "And since opening for sales last year, we have sold 31 of the 35 homes that have been released to date."

Warmington recently released an additional 14 homes in Phase Four and starting prices begin at $359,000. The homes offer six bedrooms or three bedrooms with bonus room and den options. Formal living and dining rooms, family rooms with woodburning fireplaces and island kitchens with bay windowed nooks are featured. Luxurious master bedroom suites with optional fireplace highlight each plan at Belsomet. A three-car garage, three-car garage with workshop area or a four-car garage is available. Interior laundry service rooms with sinks and cabinets are standard in each home.

The homes at Warmington's Belsomet community are situated on large-size lots that average 8,000 square feet — perfect for a backyard swimming pool. Right now, Warmington Homes is offering to coordinate the installation of a new Anthony swimming pool for qualified buyers. Buyers who choose this option benefit from the added advantage of having a swimming pool ready and waiting for them to enjoy when they move in. Working with Anthony's pool designers, buyers may select the size and shape of their new pool as well as choosing the tile.

Belsomet's hilltop setting offers residents beautiful panoramic views of the surrounding mountains and night time city lights. Additionally, local shopping and employment centers are located nearby and the community is convenient to freeways.

As part of its extensive buyer assistance program, Warmington Homes is offering to assist prospective new home buyers with the sale of their existing home. Warmington Reaty utilizes a large network of Southern California brokers, who have a high record of success in the resale market, to help contingent buyers sell their existing home — making it possible for them to purchase a new Warmington home at Belsomet.

Warmington Homes is one of Southern California's largest and most successful home development companies and has built nearly 25,000 homes since 1926.

To visit Warmington's Belsomet community, exit the 91 Freeway at Weir Canyon, just east of Imperial Highway and go south. Turn right on Serrano and right again on Canyon Creek. Follow the signs to The Highlands, go through the gates at Belsomet and turn left, then turn left again at the Warmington Hoes at Belsomet models. The three beautifully decorated model homes, designed by Country Life Interiors, are open for viewing daily until 5 p.m. For more information, call Warmington's Belsomet sales representatives JoAnn Beynon or Tom Clark at (714) 281-1201.

The grass is always greener ...

Over the river and through the woods, to grandmother's house we go!

This charming mountain cottage located in the Big Bear Mountain community gives the feeling of grandmother's house. The home is decorated with Dutch gambrel, complete with tulips. A country-style kitchen and a cozy fireplace is reminiscent of the good ole' days.

Offering two bedrooms and an oversized double lot, it's perfect for those of who need a convenient escape. The lot is hidden in the wooded pines, and offers fencing for additional privacy. The cottage is offered for $79,000.

The Big Bear community is a picturesque mountain town with a general store and friendly folks who enjoy the quiet comfort of easy living. It offers an escape from the chaotic hustle and bustle of the city. During the summer season, Big Bear Lake has is a fisherman's delight. Cross country and downhill skiing abound in the winter months.

Imagine enjoying a romantic sunrise with the rays peeking through the pine trees, having a picnic in the seclusion of wooded bliss and discovering the quiet calm of the area.

Janet Stevens of Bruin Trojan Realtors represents this sellers. For more information about the Big Bear area or th home, call 1-800-STAR-ERA.

SAFE AND SOUND

Located in Anaheim Hills, this estate on a 1.5 acre lot is untouched by recent mudslides. The oversized curved driveway leads to the elegant residence being marketed by ERA Star Real Estate Center for $1,350,000.

Marble flooring and cathedral ceilings are featured in the formal entrance. Another extra is the built-in curio cabinet.

The living room features a cararra marble fireplace with an intricate hand-carved alder wood mantle. It offers a panoramic view of the city from an extended bay window.

Formal dining is highlighted with French doors and extra accent windows.

A breakfast room is one of the features of the gourmet kitchen, which also has a walk-in pantry, marble island, built-in sub-zero refrigerator and a built-in Ronson food center.

The home includes a private library which features a hand painted mural on the ceiling, reminiscent of old Italy.

The entertainment/game room features 40 feet of entertaining space and includes a full wet bar island that seats 12.

A marble fireplace and raised hearth highlights the master suite. The suite includes a retreat area with wet bar and TV entertainment center. Three other bedrooms are oversized and each has its own private bath.

The exterior landscaping is of bouquet rock hardscaping and is professionally designed and maintained. The pool and spa features a natural rock waterfall, a deck area and outdoor showers.

A four-car garage is included.

TRADE SECRETS

The prominent founder of the Huntington Beach Surf Museum has just placed her house on the market. Natalie Kotsch has been a socialite in the Huntington Beach circle for at least six years and in 1992 was awarded citizen of the year.

Her love for the California beach and the age-old sport prompted her involvement with the museum that is now open to the public in downtown Huntington Beach. Memorabilia such as the super long boards of yesteryear, photos and such of various beach bands and an original woody automobile are some of the items that can be enjoyed in the only musuem that kids will actually enjoy visiting.

Her home, of course, is located in historical downtown Huntington Beach and is a classic. The home offers four oversized bedrooms and the asking price is a mere $439,000.

A professionally manicured yard, extensive brick hardscape and a curving brick walk way leads to the beautiful entrance of this home. Graced with frosted beveled glass, elegance abounds.

The living room features shining hardwood floors and a custom brick fireplace that extends from floor up to ceiling.

The gourmet kitchen features French doors that lead directly to the private deck area. The deck is very large, approximately 16 x 25 feet and is perfect for those summer barbecues and those cool ocean breezes.

Natalie's hobby is Japanese gardening and her Oriental garden in the backyard must be seen to be appreciated.

Most people wouldn't think of a woman being the founder of the Huntington Beach International Surf Museum, but when your love for the beach, the ocean and the Huntington Beach community is as strong as Natalie's, it isn't surprising. For additional information about this remarkable home call 1-800-STAR-ERA.

And don't forget to ask her about the International Surf Msueum. It's the only one of its kind in the world. She just might even offer a personal tour!

How can NSR do it?

The NSR Mortgage concept is a throw back to the old "Local Banker" theme. In the old days when you needed a mortgage loan, you went to your local banker for financing. You would sit down with your local banker and by the time you were ready to leave the office you had an answer.

There are no "LOAN COMMITTEES" standing in the way of a decision.

The NSR Mortgage office has three employees, the Manager, the Underwriter, and the Loan Processor. The Manager is the "Local Banker," a highly experienced and professional mortgage banker that has the authority to make underwriting decisions. The best part is, since the overhead is low, the savings are passed down to you in lower points and fees, plus you get an answer before you leave the office. The professional service doesn't end when you walk out the door. Because NSR has a fully automated processing system and by using alternative documents, loans are processed, underwritten and funded in a record amount of time.

Taxpayers push homeowner relief

State Sen. Bill Leonard (R-Upland) and Assemblyman Chuck Quackenbush (R-San Jose) have introduced legislation, prepared by the Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association, to strengthen Propostion 13.

Titled the Homeowners Releief Act of 1993, the bill would require a vote of the people before a benefit assessment distrcit (BAD) can impose new taxes on property owners.

Bryan Miller, a principal in the Lee & Associates Orange office, represented Underwood in the transaction for the building at 204 Carleton St.,

The buyer, Sone Systems Inc., was represented by Dave Williams of Ashwill Hawkins.

Century 21 Able agents announce guarantee program

Hal Schlegel and Diego Mendez, real estate agents with Century 21 Able Realty, have announced a new program offering "Satisfaction Guaranteed."

"We are promising, in writing, that we will refund our entire commission if our clients are not unconditionally satisfied with our performance," said Schlegel and Mendez. " 'Satisfaction Guaranteed' reflects our confidence and ability to do the best job possible. It is a confirmation of our commitment to service and to our clients."

The two said they believe that today, more than ever, businesses understand that customer satisfaction is critical in building a long-term relationship. Supporting their belief, they say, are studies which show that 95 percent of consumers who are dissatisfied with the service they received from a professional did not complain. They also did not return to those professionals or refer business to them.

For details on the "Satisfied Guaranteed" program, contact Schlegel or Mendez at the Able agency at (714) 774-2884.

Rates as of March 4, 1993. All loans listed are conventional 30/30 for loans below $203,150 except as specified in the "Notes" column. Points are the per cent of the loan balance paid to the lender at the time of loan closing. For fixed-rate loans, borrowers are advised to compare lock-in features; for adjustable programs ask the lenders if the loan has the potential for negative amortization as well as other important factors such as the index, margin, Caps, insurance and lock-in. Lender Type is: B = bank; K = mortgage banker; R = mortgage broker; S = savings & loan. Mortgage bankers and brokers are licensed by the California Department of Real Estate as either a broker or corporation. For more information call Calif. DRE at (916) 227-0931.

All Annual Percentage Rates (A.P.R.) are calculated by Mortgage News Co. based on a $203,150 loan amount, the points as shown and $700 total fees. An A.P.R. is an estimated annual cost of the loan to the borrower, and they are included in this chart for comparison only. When applying for a loan, Federal Truth-in-Lending law requires lenders to calculate an A.P.R. specific to each loan offer. All quotes are not an offer to enter into a loan agreement. All rates are subject to change; verify rates and terms prior to applying for a loan. All lenders charge other fees in addition to those shown, as well as provide loans with different rates and terms for different loan amounts. For a consumer guide on how to shop for a mortgage, send $4.50 check payable to Mortgage News Co., 1505 East 17th St., Suite 211, Santa Ana, CA 92701. If you have questions please call (714) 836-1177.
